Surplus in City and Ray Sees '70 Tax Cut

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan has come up with a budget surplus of $127,000 but he has ready answers for where it came from and what he plans to do with it.

The extra cash came in the form of a late sales tax check from the state on Dec. 28. Garraghan said he had figured on "about $80,000" but received a check for $170,000. That provided the bulk of the surplus, the rest coming from other unanticipated additional revenues.

Mayor Garraghan also announced this morning that the city has received its final check for the balance of the first year's sales tax in the amount of $276,696.36. It is for December, 1968, January and February, 1969.

This brings the total sales tax revenue received from March of last year through February of this year to $1,048,216.79 for the 12-month period since the tax's inception.

Tax Reduction Use

The money, according to Garraghan, is now in an interest-bearing account, and if his estimated budget for 1969 proves accurate, will be used for a tax reduction on the 1970 budget, Garraghan's last one.

Garraghan was asked by The Freeman why he did not use the $127,000 to reduce this year's taxes, since the sales tax check was received before the 1969 budget was approved by the Common Council on Jan. 7.

Explained the mayor, "My budget was made up on Dec. 15. The public hearing was held Dec. 26 and the state check came in two days after that. The extra money will be used to reduce next year's tax rate."

Garraghan said he considers the budget surplus the culmination of his fiscal policies during his 3½ years in office. "The only thing you used to hear around budget time was how big is the deficit going to be," Garraghan said. "I'll tell you one thing. The man in the street is happy to see a budget surplus instead of a deficit."

The record shows that the budget deficit in 1965, the year Garraghan was elected, was $58,526. Former Mayor John J. Schwenk's last budget (for 1966) showed a deficit of $115,667.

Garraghan's first budget (for 1967) showed a surplus of $9,925. In 1968 he went on the minus side, showing a deficit of $88,402. His 1969 budget shows a surplus of $15,701. That figure was arrived at before the state sales tax check was received.

Bills Paid When Due

The mayor's assessment of the city's overall financial situation? "Tremendous." "We're in a position now where we pay our bills when they come due. We haven't borrowed any money for revenue anticipation notes in almost a year."

Nixon Urges Action on 10 Key Proposals

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon sent an informal State of the Union message to Congress today, urging immediate action on 10 major proposals including increased social security benefits and federal revenue sharing with the states and local governments.

The message signaled the first broad-scale effort of the President to spell out a domestic program for congressional enactment this session.

Details Later

He advised the House and Senate that detailed messages of the 10 top priority proposals will be sent to Congress starting this week.

Nixon also indicated a number of longer-range legislative recommendations he will make later.

Nixon observed that he had decided to forego submitting a formal State of the Union message after he was inaugurated Jan. 20. He said today's preview was in lieu of such a message.

The 10 "immediate action" proposals were summarized as follows:

Increased social security benefits aimed at offsetting the rising cost of living.

Beginning plans on sharing federal revenues with state and local governments.

New laws to combat organized crime, especially racketeering, narcotics peddling and pornography.

Increased equal employment opportunity.

A tax credit incentive program aimed at enlisting the business community in social welfare and antipoverty programs.

PO Reorganization

Reorganization of the post office department.

A three-year tax reform program that will plug loopholes used by some of the wealthy to escape heavy tax payments and eventually revise the entire tax structure.

Stepped-up labor and manpower programs including improvements of unemployment insurance, safety, and job placement programs.

Stepped-up development of airport and airway facilities and mass transit systems.

No Apology

"It will be the goal of this administration to propose only legislation that we know we can execute once it becomes law," the message said. "Merely making proposals takes only a typewriter; making workable proposals takes time. We have taken this time."

He told Congress that his longer-range proposals will not require legislation until the administration has completed additional studies and planning.

American Unit Cut Up Badly by Reds

SAIGON (AP)—An American scout platoon and air cavalry reinforcements were pinned down and cut up badly by enemy machine guns Sunday before tanks and armored personnel carriers crashed through thick jungle to rescue them.

Military spokesmen said 15 Americans were killed and 16 were wounded in the four-hour battle in the shadow of Black Virgin Mountain, 45 miles northwest of Saigon. They gave this account:

About 30 men from the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment made a helicopter landing near the mountain to check the results of a B52 strike. They found one enemy body and 72 ruined bunkers, then got into an undamaged bunker area and were pinned down by North Vietnamese machine gunners.

Two Americans were killed and four were wounded in the first few minutes while the rest of the platoon dived for cover. When a company of 1st Air Cavalry Division troops arrived to reinforce them, it, too, was pinned down. Six more men were killed and several were wounded.

Artillery, dive-bombers and rocket-firing helicopters kept the enemy from overrunning the trapped Americans until the column of tanks and armored personnel carriers arrived and went after the entrenched North Vietnamese. Seven more Americans were killed but the enemy fled before the armor.

10 Enemy Bodies

Spokesman said 10 enemy bodies were found on the battlefield.

Farther south, about 25 miles from Saigon, troops from a mechanized battalion of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division killed 24 North Vietnamese in an area called the Citadel, near the Cambodian border. Spokesmen said it was the same enemy force that lost at least 33 men in a fight Friday with troops of the same American battalion in the same location. The Americans were unscathed both times.

The U.S. Command said three helicopters were shot down Sunday, raising to 2,524 the number of choppers lost in the war.

One was a rocket-firing Cobra gunship that crashed 35 miles northwest of An Hoa, killing both the pilot and the gunner. The other two were OH6 observation craft, shot down 44 miles northwest of Saigon and 75 miles southwest of the capital. There were no casualties.

Offensive in 8th Week

With the Viet Cong's spring offensive in its eighth week, 15 rocket and mortar attacks were reported Sunday night, two of them in Tay Ninh province. One barrage hit the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Divisoin base at Phuoc Vinh, 35 miles northwest of Saigon, and another hit a fire base of the U.S. 25th Division 60 miles from the capital. The U.S. Command said damage and casualties were light at both bases.

South Vienamese spokesman said two provincial capitals, Kien Phong and Vinh Binh, both in the Mekong Delta, were hit. The barrages caused no casualties there, but a civilian was killed and 16 were wounded in a mortar attack on a delta district town.

County Demos Meet Tomorrow, Still Some Blanks in Lineup

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

As of 9:30 this morning, Ulster County Democrats still did not have a candidate's name for county clerk to submit to the unofficial county convention to be held Tuesday night at 8 at the Court House.

The convention, originally called late last month, was recessed by the county chairman Dr. Gerald P. Gorman because "we don't have a full slate of legislator candidates."

Recessing of the convention was also thought in some quarter due to the fact that there was dissension in the ranks over Dr. Gorman's published statements calling for a Democratic-Conservative coalition. At that time a leading Conservative Bernie Singer's name was expected to be advanced for the nomination.

A check of various Democratic chairmen of the legistative districts this morning revealed that there are also a number of county legislator candidate slots still to be filled although a number of contenders have already thrown their hat into the ring. Among them are former Wawarsing Supervisor George Barthel, former state senatorial candidate A. E. Woolley of New Paltz and Lewis Kirschner, Port Ewen delicatessen owner.

Also announced today is the candidacy for Esopus town justice of Louis Klein who has just resigned as president of the Ulster County Young Democrats.

County legislator candidates announced to date include:

District 1, Saugerties, incumbents Richard Thornton and Paul Brazier. As of now there are no announced candidates for the two remaining seats held by Republicans.

District 2, Towns of Ulster, Hurley, Marlborough and Kingston, Joseph Policano, Edward Langton, Daniel Steltz and Richard Rosichan, all of Ulster, and James Barton of Town of Kingston.

Districts 3, 4, 5 and 6, City of Kingston, have already been nominated at the city convention and include Dr. Gorman, Thomas Lyle, city clerk; Raymond A. Garraghan, William Davis, James Gilpatric, Andrew Gilday, incumbents Orrie R. Riehl and William F. Edelmuth.

District 7, Towns of Esopus and Rosendale, incumbent Minority Leader Roger Mabie and Lewis Kirschner of Port Ewen. Mabie said today that efforts were being made to secure a candidate from Rosendale to seek the third seat.

District 8, Towns of New Paltz and Gardiner, former state senatorial candidate A. E. "Al" Woolley of New Paltz has announced his intention to run as has Gardiner Supervisor George Majestic who was a former member of the old Board of Supervisors.

District 9, Towns of Shawangunk, Plattekill, Marlboro and Lloyd have not yet announced its candidates. There are five seats available, all held by Republicans at present.

District 11, Towns of Rochester, Denning, Hardenbergh, Shandaken and Olive has two seats to be filled with no announced candidates.

District 12, Town of Woodstock, Democratic Town Chairman John Bonilla has announced his candidacy for the one seat now held by a Republican.

Dr. Gorman stated previously that there would be no candidate for county coroner in view of the fact that the party sticks by its position that the post calls for a medical examiner.

Citizens' Late Headache: Try to Beat Tax Deadline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Over the weekend about eight million Americans engaged in one of the traditional rites of spring—trying to beat the April 15 deadline for filing income tax returns.

The U.S. Internal Revenue Service (IRS) warns this last minute rush results in delayed refunds and sometimes costly mistakes in figuring out taxes owed. The task is complicated further this year by the need to figure out what the new 10 per cent tax surcharge will cost.

IRS officials say that despite warnings and pleas to file early, April 1 brought the customary flood of returns. The heaviest per day load is still to come.

In 1968 nearly half of the 83.5 million returns filed arrived at IRS offices around the nation between April 1-15.

So far, the trend for 1969 is right in line with previous years, the IRS said. As of April 4, about 45 million returns had been filed. Of these, 27.5 million will get refunds totaling $5.4 million.

At the same point in 1968 there were 29.6 million returns filed with $5.3 million due in refunds.

For those still sweating out the chore of paying Uncle Sam his share for last year, the IRS cautions tax filers to use extra care in their calculations as the hour of midnight, April 15 draws near.

The most common errors in making out a tax form are either mathematical or just plain omitting an item altogether.

If a taxpayer files his return and then realizes he has made a mistake, the IRS has a special form called 1040-X available for corrections.

In Kingston, District Director Representative Vincent A. Scileppi says taxpayers may be in the " same usual last minute rush" to complete their Internal Revenue returns, but advises that they stop and "go over it again" before sealing the envelope and sending returns off in the mail.

Common carelessness is listed as the major "No No" by the service, who says agents will be on hand to assist taxpayers from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. Tuesday. Scileppi says telephone calls to the Kingston office may solve many head splitting problems, but in person visits may be needed for many.

Kingston Man, 2 Other Persons Die in Area Weekend Accidents

By WALTER S. CLARK

MIDDLETOWN

A 50-year-old Kingston man, a New Hampton youth and an 8-year old Newburgh boy, were numbered among at least 18 persons killed on New York State highways over the weekend.

A 15-year-old boy was fatally injured Saturday night when he tripped on an electric cord in his home here on the way to a telephone, and fell against a metal tripod ashtray, which penetrated his skull. The boy died an hour later in a local hospital.

Authorities in Ulster and other counties investigated a rash of traffic accidents that resulted in personal injuries and arrests.

Joseph Mikulka, of 34 Pine Street, Kingston, and James A. Bogdanski, 18, of New Hampton, were killed early Saturday in a truck-car collision on Route 211 opposite the 17-84 Bowl. Mikulka, a night watchman for the Del Balso Construction Co., which is widening Route 211, was making his inspection rounds at the project, when the truck he was driving was in collision with the car.

Critical Condition

Bogdanski, a passenger in the vehicle driven by Andrew A. Sargent, 18, of this city, and Mikulka were dead on arrival at Horton Memorial Hospital. Police said the car crossed into the eastbound lane and collided with the truck. Sargent was admitted to the hospital suffering a depressed fracture of the skull. His condition was listed as critical.

Michael Doulin, 8, of Newburgh, was fataly injured Friday when he ran into the side of a moving truck. He died at a local hospital on Saturday.

Victim of an unusual accident in his home Saturday night was John Rodriguez Jr., of 200 Cottage Street, this city. The boy's father told authorities that his son ran across a room in his home to answer the telephone. He apparently tripped over a cord and upset an end table.

As the boy fell to the floor a wire leg of a tripod holding an ash tray pierced the right side of the child's head approximately five inches. The boy's father pulled the ash tray leg from his son's head, and then he ran to the front door screaming for help.

The boy was rushed to the hospital here and died about an hour later. Police said the victim's father collapsed in deep shock and was treated by a physician.

Roberta Kelly, 24, of Summer Street, Kingston, was critically injured at 10:40 p.m. Sunday, when the car in which she was a passenger went out of control on Route 28 in the Town of Olive, and rolled over on the highway. She was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctors ambulance and treated for a fractured clavicle, multiple body bruises and severe head injuries. Her condition was listed as critical.

Trooper Carl Van Wagenen reported the car was driven by John M. Stone, 22, of Shokan, who was later cited for driving while intoxicated.

Stone was taken to the hospital by the same ambulance service and treated for less serious injuries.

Michael Cooper, 49, of Rosendale, was injured at 5:40 p. m. Sunday when he fell asleep as he was driving his car along Route 375 near Maverick Road in the Town of Hurley. The vehicle veered off the east shoulder and sideswiped a utility pole, crossed the highway and crashed headon into a rock ledge.

Congressman Fish Resumes Full Duties in Washington

POUGHKEEPSIE

Following a two-week mourning period for his late wife who was killed in a car crash March 26, Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr., resumed his full range of duties in Washington today as Congress reconvened following a 10-day Easter recess.

Although he will resume his normal congressional duties, all public appearances, speeches and evening engagements have been cancelled until the end of April.

In Executive Sessions

In Washington, Congressman Fish will participate in the executive sessions for the full committee of the Judiciary on the question of Electoral College reform. The executive session will be aimed at development of a constitutional amendment to change the present method of presidential selection and comes after six weeks of hearings on the question.

He will also be participating in the study of the Water Quality Improvement Act of 1969, and the Elementary and Secondary Amendment of 1969.

During the 10-day recess, the offices of Congressman Fish have been in full operation. In addition to reviewing all testimony before the Judicial Committee on Electoral College reform, Congressman Fish has been answering over 2,500 messages of condolence received following the death of his wife, Julia.

Luncheon Set

A luncheon arranged by the Congressman of federal, state and local officials aimed at exploring ways to preserve "Springside," the home of Matthew Vassar, the founder of Vassar College, has been rescheduled for Monday, April 21 at the Nelson House in Poughkeepsie.

The luncheon, which will include officials from Housing and Urban Development, the Department of the Interior, state historic trusts, the Hudson River Valley Commission, as well as county and state officials, was originally scheduled from March 31. The earlier meeting was cancelled due to President Nixon proclaiming Monday, March 31, a national day of mourning for the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Keynote Speaker

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Dr. Barnaby C. Keeney, chairman of the National Endowment for the Humanities, will be keynote speaker Wednesday for the State University of New York's Convocation on the Arts.

Dr. Keeney is a former president of Brown University and the author of "Judgement by Peers."

Ike: American Hero

Author Assesses Gen. Eisenhower

BIOGRAPHY COVER

NEW YORK (UPI)—"When we take a final look at Dwight D. Eisenhower, we stand in judgment of ourselves as much as of him," says Bruce Catton, Pulitzer Prize-winning historian.

Catton's assessment of Eisenhower as president appears as the foreword to "Eisenhower: American Hero," a 144-page illustrated biography being published jointly by United Press International and American Heritage.

Catton writes that during the Eisenhower administration the U.S. "evolved and put into operation a working philosophy of the unity of free peoples everywhere."

"We were indeed guilty of good deal of fumbling and backsliding along the way," Catton writes, "but in the main the record is extremely good. Perhaps the best way to sum it up is to say that the ideals we fought for in the second world war are still alive and that we are firmly committed to them."

Commenting on Eisenhower s vital role in this national endeavor, Catton writes:

"He gave us the strength of a great reputation, a great character, and an abiding sense of America's mission; gave us, when all is said and done, the chance to live up to the best there is in us. Not very many presidents have ever given us more."

The UPI-American Heritage biography will contain personal recollections of Gen. Omar Bradley, Viscount Montgomery of Alamein, Gen. Mark Clark, Brig. Gen. S. L. A. Marshall, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, and others.

The principal text of the book was written by Kenneth S. Davis, historian and author of earlier books on Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson.

Burning Permits Are Canceled; Fire Danger

NEW PALTZ

Because of the high danger of forest fires that exists in Ulster County and surrounding areas, District Ranger William H. Sussdorf of the State Conservation Department has cancelled all burning permits during the present emergency.

Sussdorf said the five-day forecast starting Saturday afternoon is clear, dry weather, and he noted the forest fire danger is very high and any fire started during this period could spread rapidly and intensify.

Twelve fire observation towers are fully manned as conservation men are constantly on the watch for fires in the wooded areas. Seven towers are active in Ulster County including those at Bellayre Mountain, High Point, Red Hill, Mt. Tremper, Mohonk, Balsam Lake and Overlook.

Sussdorf said burning permits have been cancelled in the 4-county district which includes Ulster, Orange, Rockland and Sullivan.

Some areas are not covered by conservation department permits, Sussdorf said. He urged residents in those areas not to burn until the existing conditions are eliminated by greening or rain.

The decision to cancel permits came in the wake of an unusual number of forest and grass fires that have erupted in many communities in the last two weeks.

Prague Tensions Up

PRAGUE (AP) — New Warsaw Pact military maneuvers opening today heightened tension in Prague over the crisis in relations with Moscow.

The exercises, announced by the Czechoslovak Defense Ministry, are to run through Wednesday, the eve of a meeting of the 190-member Czechoslovak Communist party Central Committee at which liberals and pro-Moscow conservatives are expected to clash.

The announcement said the exercises would test antiaircraft defenses in Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary and Western Russia as well as "other countries" of the Warsaw Pact, the Soviet bloc military alliance. The Warsaw Pact also includes East Germany, Bulgaria and Romania.

It was considered likely that Bulgaria and East Germany also would participate in the maneuvers. But Romania's Communist leaders oppose foreign troops on their soil. Their party newspaper Scienteia condemned the maneuvers in an article Sunday, saying it was imperative for European countries to 'refrain from any demonstrations and acts of force, including military maneuvers on foreign territories."

The new maneuvers are the second Warsaw Pact military exercise since the new Czechoslovak-Soviet crisis began. It was set off by anti-Soviet demonstrations March 28-29 after Czechoslovakia's ice hockey team defeated the Russian team in Stockholm.

The Soviet Union reacted angrily to the demonstrations. The Kremlin rushed Soviet Defense Minister Andrei Grechko and Deputy Foreign Minister Vladimir Samyanov to Prague, and the Czechoslovak party's Central Committee announced new press controls, disciplining of journalists and strengthening of police forces, with the army to be used when necessary.

A week of Warsaw Pact ground maneuvers was held in Czechoslovakia, East Germany and Poland, and reports circulated that the 70,000-man Soviet occupation force in Czechoslovakia was being increased.

The supreme Executive Committee of the party held an unusual Saturday night session and issued a statement condemning public meetings to discuss in advance the issues before the Central Committee meeting. The statement said such grass roots sessions were "undemocratic and pressure-creating.

A Challenge For Hussein

JERUSALEM (AP) — Foreign Minister Abba Eban challenged King Hussein Sunday to bring his peace proposals to the negotiating table, saying that until the Arabs negotiate face to face with the Israelis all such plans are only "public relations and polemics."

"The National Press Club is no substitute for the negotiating table," Eban said, referring to the Jordanian monarch's speech last week in Washington in which he outlined his six-point peace plan.

Alert for Any Sign

He said Israel is alert for any sign of "a genuine wish for peace on the part of the Arab states."

"If Hussein wants peace with Israel, he should have no trouble achieving it," Eban added.

Commenting on Hussein's promise that Israeli shipping could use the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba, Eban said: "Nonbelligerence is more than freedom of navigation."

He said Hussein would have to expel "forces of beligerence, regular or irregular, from Jordan, meaning the Arab guerrilla groups based in Jordan.

The king said Sunday he believed the Big Four meetings at the United Nations offered the "last chance" for peace in the Middle East.

"Unless something is done and done quickly," he said, "I believe the situation will be pretty dangerous."

He appeared on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Hussein also said a "majority" of the Arabs, including the guerrillas, would accept a peace settlement negotiated on the basis of his six points. He said some "improvement" in Israel's prewar boundaries might be possible, but this would have to be negotiated.

Hussein will be guest of honor at a luncheon in New York today given by U.N. Secretary-General U Thant. Also invited were the Big Four's U.N. ambassadors, who scheduled another meeting later in the day in their continuing search for a Middle East settlement.

Hostilities continued on the Suez and Jordan River fronts Sunday as the Greek Orthodox community celebrated its Easter in the Jerusalem. As usual, each side blamed the other for starting the fighting.

Two artillery and machine-gun duels raged across the Jordan River, and Jordanian military authorities claimed their forces killed or wounded 12 Israelis, destroyed two Israeli observation posts and silenced three artillery positions. No Jordanian losses were reported.

A spokesman in Amman said two Israeli jet fighers also attacked the village of Karameh, seven miles east of the river, and the five-minute air raid was followed by a 45-minute artillery barrage. There was no word on casualties or damage.

Exchange Canal Shots

Israeli and Egyptian guns also hammered at each other sporadically along the Suez Canal but an Israeli spokesman said: "It was not serious like the previous exchanges."

Egypt claimed the Israelis suffered "heavy losses in men and material" while the Arabs were unscathered. Israel said two of its soldiers were wounded, bringing Israeli casualties in the past month along the canal to nine killed and 36 wounded.

In Tel Aviv, an Israeli military court ruled that captured members of Arab guerrilla groups cannot be considered prisoners of war under the Geneva Convention. The court overruled a defense contention that a captured Arab guerrilla commander and 11 men now on trial carried papers of a military organization and wore uniforms, thus entitling them to POW status.

Legion to Meet

The regular monthly meeting of Kingston Post 150 American Legion and its Ladies Auxiliary will be held at the Post Home, 18 West O'Reilly Street, Tuesday 8 p.m. An Americasism film will be shown at the conclusion of the meetings. All members may attend.

Boycott May Force Harvard's Closing

By United Press International

A boycott of classes that gained about 50 per cent support at Harvard University Friday resumed today. It was possible the 333-year-old school would be forced to close.

The Harvard Corp., ruling body of the school, issued a warning Sunday that if another campus building is occupied it would issue a recommendation closing Harvard. Forty-eight persons were injured when police cleared University Hall last Wednesday of student occupation forces.

Other Campuses

Boycotts, sit-ins and other demonstrations were planned at other schools across the nation today as classes resumed following the weekend which interrupted the first week of campus unrest after the Easter vacation period.

Antiwar demonstrators who maintained their occupation of Stanford University's Applied Electronics Laboratory through the weekend planned today to spread their protest to include the affiliated Stanford Research Institute where most of the school's classified military research is carried out.

Student-faculty meetings are set at Queens College in New York City in the midst of the fifth day of a peaceful sit-in and a committee assigned to study campus unrest at Southern University in New Orleans scheduled a meeting with the predominantly Negro student body. A student strike was called for today at Oberlin College in Ohio.

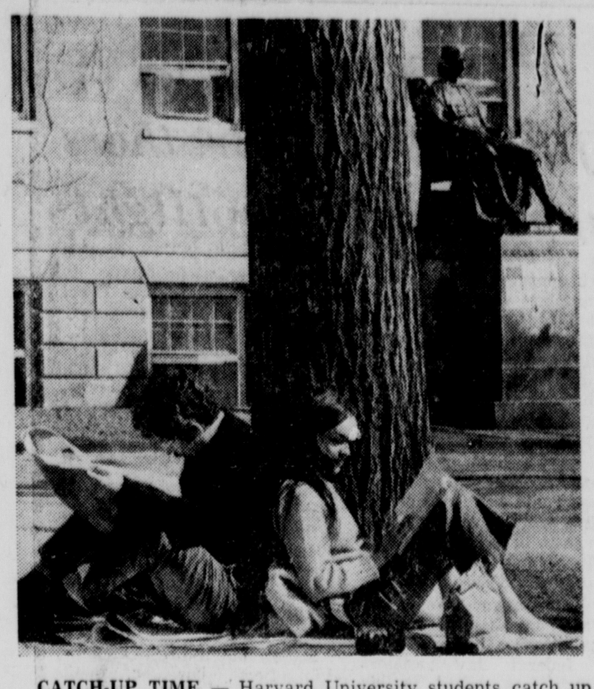

Cornell university, in an effort to meet demands of campus activists, voted to grant up to $2 million to solve the housing problem at Ithaca, N.Y., where the school is located.

Unrest Elsewhere

Other campus unrest was reported at:

— Lafayette, Ind., where students have called for a boycott of the Purdue University Memorial Union in protest of increased fees for tuition and other services. The boycott was to begin today and run for two weeks.

—Kalamazoo, Mich., where police investigated a fire in Western Michigan University's Student Center Saturday. There was no determination whether the fire bombing, which damaged drapes and furniture, was connected with several recent protest demonstrations.

CATCH-UP TIME — Harvard University students catch up on their studies as the statue of John Harvard (rear) looks over historic Harvard Yard Sunday as bright sunshine filtered through the trees. Knots of students gathered to debate the issues which led to the violence during the clearing of the administration building by some 500 police on Thursday. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Legislature Returns

Some Thorny Albany Issues

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — State legislators put two weeks of recess behind them today and prepared to return to the Capitol Tuesday to face the thorny issues of abortion, New York City school decentralization and reapportionment of the state's congressional districts.

Even with these three major issues before them, the lawmakers hoped for adjournment of the 1969 session by the end of the month.

Proposed abortion law reform would liberalize the current law under which abortion is legal only when necessary to save the life of the mother. Five new grounds for legal abortions would be added to the law if the legislature approves of the measure before it.

Two separate plans to decentralize the New York City school system are under consideration by the Assembly and State Senate. One has been proposed by the city's Board of Education and the other by the State Board of Regents.

The reapportionment issue was handed to legislators by the U.S. Supreme Court during the Easter-Passover holiday recess when the high court struck down the current districting plan.

The court ruled the plan passed by the 1968 legislature was not "a good faith effort" to meet the one - man, one - vote edict and the redistricting was ordered prior for to the 1970 General Election.

Legislators are of the opinion a special session will be called later in the year to resolve the issue.

Other bills facing the lawmakers would

—Prohibit a person convicted of burning his draft card or desecrating the American Flag from holding public office.

Academy Awards--New Look Tonight

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The Academy Awards, minus perennial master of ceremonies Bob Hope, tonight will debut a streamlined version of the traditional Oscar presentations.

Gone will be the traditional routine of introducing a pair of stars before each award, who then opened the sealed envelope and, after a suspenseful pause, announced the winner.

Also absent will be the time-consuming walks to the podium by the winners. In fact, the usual practice of having stand-ins accept Oscars for absent winners will be eliminated.

Notable Stars

In place of Hope and the string of "presenters" will be 10 notable stars who will distribute the statuettes. These hosts and hostesses include Frank Sinatra, Jane Fonda, Sidney Poitier, Steve McQueen and Burt Lancaster.

The tradition-breaker is Gower Champion, mastermind of several Broadway hit plays who is directing the ceremonies for the first time. Although Hope is not master of ceremonies this year, he is expected to appear on the show.

Katharine Hepburn could become the first actress in the 42-year history of the awards to win three Oscars. She won last year for "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner," and for "Morning Glory" in 1933. This year she was nominated for "The Lion in Winter," which also is a contender for best motion picture of 1968.

Also in the running is Barbra Streisand, who was nominated for "Funny Girl," the first picture she ever made. Patricia Neal is a sentimental favorite in "The Subject was Roses." She suffered three near-fatal strokes three years ago but fought back to resume her successful career.

Redgrave Nominated

Only two of the nominees, Miss Streisand and Miss Woodward, were expected to attend tonight's presentations by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

The contenders for best actor are Cliff Robertson (Charly), Ron Moody (Oliver!), Alan Arkin (The Heart is a Lonely Hunter), Alan Bates (The Fixer), and Peter O'Toole (The Lion in Winter).

The awards will be televised (ABC-TV 10 p.m. EST) and will be held for the first time in the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion at the Los Angeles Music Center.

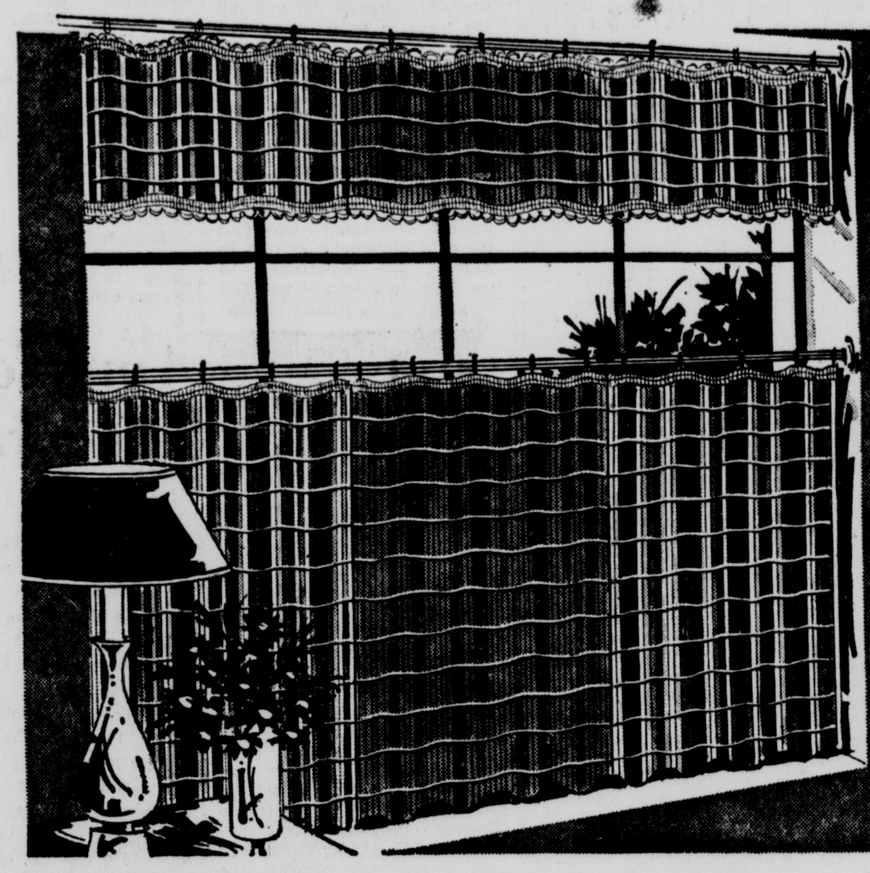

The major contest for best picture is between "The Lion in Winter" and Oliver!" The latter received 11 nominations. The other three contenders are "Funny Girl," "Romeo and Juliet" and "Rachel, Rachel."

High Income, No Taxes

Ever since attention was drawn to the 200 or more Americans who have high incomes but pay little or no taxes under the present income tax code, feeling has been pretty high among middle class people who pay their taxes without any such permissible deductions. As hearings are being held in the House Ways and Means Committee on these loopholes, some examples have become known.

For example, a taxpayer whose gross income from capital gains came to $1,284,718 virtually eliminated his tax of $383 through deductions for interest charges of $587,693. He paid these interest charges to carry assets on which he realized his capital gains. First the code charged him only one-half his capital gain in taxes. Then he used the interest charges to wipe out the other half.

Another case covered an oil and gas income of $1,469,179. The depletion allowance was $865,644. This taxpayer also showed a farming loss of $828,571. That was written off as current expenses, leaving this millionaire with no taxes to pay.

The third case was that of a real estate operator. He reported deductions of $864,000 in excess of his real estate income which produced a loss that eliminated his taxes. Later, he can sell this real estate at a profit, but for the present, he has no taxes to pay on his huge income.

Finally, there was the case of the philanthropic millionaire. To qualify for unlimited deduction, the taxpayer's charitable contributions and income taxes paid must exceed 90 per cent of his taxable income in nine out of the last 10 years. Over 100 person do qualify. The Treasury noted that the bulk of such contributions consists of appreciated property, primarily securities, so that actually the capital is not involved, mostly the market increases.

Philanthropies have their place in American life, but incomes taxes should not be sacrificed to finance them, or real estate operations, or oil and farm operations. Each should stand on its own feet.

Gradualism and Inflation

President Nixon's way of reducing inflation has been revealed by one of his economic advisers as a gradualism approach that should begin to lower consumer prices by the end of the year and make a durable transition to a lower rate of inflation in the 1970s.

The revelation was made by Herbert Stein, a member of the Council of Economic Advisers, in a speech on economic policy before the Manufacturing Chemists in Washington.

The administration's aim is to hold the consumer price index to less than a four per cent rise this year. After this process is fairly well advanced, and not later than the end of the year, it is expected to show up in lower prices for shoppers. The transition will be from "an inflationary to a high-level but less inflationary economy."

Two federal reports issued about the same time, while not conclusive as to whether the slowing of the economy was under way, nevertheless pointed that way. One was from the Labor Department. It reported a slower growth in jobs in March, with a small increase in unemployment from 3.3 per cent to 3.4 per cent of the labor force. The other was from the Commerce Department. It showed a revised February retail trade figure of $29,359,000,000 up $360 million from the January level and a new record.

These figures would seem to checkmate each other. But the retail trade figure was for early in the year and the unemployment figure a month later. Neither is set for a time when the economy would show the slowdown anticipated. They are straws that indicate the way the wind blows.

West Must Learn Status Of Warsaw Pact Countries

WASHINGTON — It might have been a forward step toward world peace if this week — which is the 20th anniversary of the North Atlantic Treaty organization — could have been made the occasion for self-examination by both the West and the East For unless agression is still considered to be a threat, there is no reason for NATO to continue, and no justification either for the Warsaw Pact Alliance which was forced upon countries of Eastern Europe by the Soviet Union.

The 15 foreign ministers of NATO, who are here to discuss the future of the organization, were addressed by President Nixon, who spoke of the need to create "new machinery for Western political consultation, as well as to make greater use of the process that already exists."

Moscow, on the other hand, had previously urged the NATO members and the Warsaw Pact countries to meet together and try to end the "Cold War." No reference to this suggestion was made by Mr. Nixon in his speech.

But why is there a NATO in Western Europe, and why is a Warsaw Pact deemed necessary in Eastern Europe? When World War II ended, the peace treaty divided Germany into two parts. This put an end to any militaristic power in that country capable of threatening the peace of Europe. But something else took its place — the Soviet assumption of control over the countries of East Europe. They became satellite states, and have been required to obey the Kremlin ideologically and otherwise.

Nothing in any peace agreement or treaty consummated at the close of World War II bestowed upon the Soviet government any authority over the small nations of Eastern Europe. The Soviets theorized that, as a precaution against an imaginary attack from Germany, they should be able to station armies in countries like Poland, Bulgaria, Rumania, Hungary and Czechoslovakia. The idea was that a threat of war would come from the West. But it hasn't. France has established a "detente" with the Soviet government, and the NATO army itself is relatively small compared to the 5,000,000 troops in Russia's standing army.

The Moscow regime, however, hasn't been content merely to mobilize conventional forces on land. It has sent a big fleet of naval vesels into the Mediterranean as well as into the Indian Ocean and the Pacific. Scores of Soviet submarines equipped with missiles are moving constantly in all the oceans.

Plainly, World War II wasn't ended in 1945. For, in place of the Nazi dictatorship, an authoritarian government in Moscow arouses the fears of the West that the Communists might suddenly seize Western Europe. NATO was formed as defense measure, and the United States played a leading role in setting up a military plan, including the possible use of tactical nuclear weapons.

All these facts have been officially publicized many times in the last 20 years. So the big question is whether the free nations now have the courage to speak out and tell the world a third major war could occur any day that the Moscow dictatorship chooses to exercise its power.

Unfortunately, when the Soviets sent an army into Czechoslovakia last August, the West did not react as it might well have done. Although a few words of protest were spoken here and there in diplomatic circles in Europe, the opportunity to point out in a formal way the illegality of the Russian action was missed.

It isn't too late for the West to ask that the status of the Warsaw Pact countries be clearly defined. Are they puppets and stooges of the Soviet government in a zone of military occupation? When will the people of each country be allowed to determine for themselves what form of government they shall have?

Conferences are scheduled to take place soon between the United States and the Soviet Union to discuss arms limitations and to find ways to put into effect the new treaty which is designed to halt the spread of nuclear weapons. But such talks would be of secondary importance if NATO and a Warsaw Pact alliance were no longer considered necessary and the East and West were to agree to respect the sovereignty of independent countries on all continents.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

A cruise director is a man who can make elderly ladies laugh while losing at Bingo. He is a man whose mind is almost always at sea. He can tell you who is visiting whom in what cabin, but his lips are sealed. Onstage, in a rocking ship, he can make a fresh kid appear to be cute; he can make a drunk appear to be seasick.

Jack Arthur is the best of them all. He has a lot of mileage on his face, but the eyes are still sparkling blue, the hair is brown, the skin is pink and babyish. His real name is Elijah Campbell, but no one remembers it. He was born on Concord Street in Brooklyn, the son of a traveling salesman and a sick mother.

She had one too many heart attacks and became a moody memory. The young man had no notion of becoming a cruise director; he took dead aim on the Broadway stage. At P.S. 127 in Fort Hamilton, he played the title role in "The Courtship of Miles Standish," and he never recovered from the surf sound of applause.

It is never easy to be an only child; it is worse to be left alone by a solitary parent. Jack Arthur was driving a truck one week, and working a part in an Arthur Hopkins play the next. He could play a piano; he could sing; he could act. He put on such a good act for Elizabeth McIlhenny that she married him.

Thirty years ago, someone offered him a shot at being a cruise director on the huge and palatial Normandie. There were two children to support — Raymond and Jean — so he decided to accept. Jack Arthur went to sea, and never recovered. He had become well-known as a singer on Radio Station WOR in New York, but he chucked everything for the sting of brine.

Between voyages, he did radio and Broadway shows, but he couldn't resist trying to entertain 800 people aboard the old Italian liner Saturnia in 1954. It headed for Bermuda and a hurricane headed for the Saturnia.

"I don't think there was a stick of furniture intact when we got through that blow," he says. "Nobody ate; nobody cooked. We were met at Hamilton by a dozen ambulances." In time, he worked the Olympia, the Bergensfjord, the Shalom, the Constitution — many ships, several oceans.

The work isn't easy. He has to hire vaudeville acts, Latin combos, fading stars, and harmonica acts like Al Blanc, who jams his jaws with five instruments and plays solos without coughing. One sneeze and Blanc is going to have emphysema in B-flat.

Mr. Arthur must cajole the passengers to play Bingo, dress for a masquerade, organize sing-a-longs, stage a White Elephant auction, crack jokes, arrange for a guy named Ramon to give dancing lessons (to men too), horse races, afternoon concerts and teen-age rock riots.

Some customers buy a cruise ticket to work off their inhibitions on B deck. Now and then a man gets so far out of order that the captain tells the gentle Jack Arthur that the offender will be refunded his money and put off the ship at the next port of call.

He may be a drunk, a limping lover, or a meany. One custormer listened to the words: "You're getting off this ship at Trinidad; your money is no good, etc." and he exhaled blue flame from both nostrils, disappeared, and returned in two hours. "I been thinking of what you said," he told the cruise director, "and I been wondering whether to come here and shake your hand of kill you. Okay. I shake your hand." The customer was a capo of Philadelphia.

Arthur was aboard the Federico C last year when it hit a rock. The rock hit back and it required a lot of pumps to keep the ship afloat. Now he works Sandford Chobol's Commodore Cruise Line. Mr. Chobol is an opera buff, so the ship is called Boheme. It has a Puccini room too, which will give you an idea of how far Mr. Chobol is gone on long-hair music.

The ship is brand new and runs from Miami to Freeport to San Juan and the Virgin Islands. Mr. Arthur will spend ten months of this year at sea.

Each voyage requires a week. The ship docks at Miami at 8 a. m. on Saturday morning and Jack Arthur, courtly and bowing, says farewell to the passengers. At 2 p.m. he is at the foot of the gangplank shaking hands hello to the new passengers who will be leaving port in an hour.

The highest compliment he got, after all these years at sea, occurred last week. Four elderly ladies met him at the ship's elevator and said: "We were at your White Elephant Auction. If you were on sale,

Drew Pearson Says

Couple of Presidential Brothers Are Caught by the Spotlight

WASHINGTON—All of a sudden, a couple of presidential brothers, hitherto kept in the background, have been caught by the spotlight. President Nixon's brother Ed abruptly gave up a government job in Alaska and ex-President Johnson's brother Sam found a publisher for his memoirs.

The inside fact is that both Presidents have gnawed their fingernails over their brothers. The late President Eisenhower was also unhappy about his brother-in-law, Col. Gordon Moore. It isn't Ed, however, who worries President Nixon so much as his other brother, Don.

Both Don Nixon and Sam Johnson have not been averse to taking advantage of their brothers' position for their own benefit. When Richard Nixon was Vice President, Don wangled a $205,000 loan from billionaire Howard Hughes, a major government contractor. The loan was never repaid.

President Nixon no sooner had moved into the White House in January than Don began sounding out business acquaintances about business deals.

White House intimates, including Communications Chief Herb Klein, have cautioned the President to keep a leash on Don. But a President can't always control his brother.

While Lyndon Johnson was in the White House, for example, Sam would turn up in North Carolina or Mixico scouting for deals that could have backfired against the President.

My Brother Lyndon

When word of Sam's activities got back to Lyndon, he would show his displeasure by giving Sam the "silent treatment." But this never seemed to inhibit silenced Sam.

Last month we reported that Sam was peddling his momoirs in New York City. Reporters finally tracked Sam down at El Morocco. He acknowledged that his memoirs, which he said would be called "My Brother Lyndon," had just been sold to Look magazine.

"Yes," he admitted, "I'm going to say things that Lyndon can't say."

The late President Kennedy, though apprehensive over how the public would take it, decided to bring his brother out into the open as Attorney General and passed it off with a quip about wanting to give his brother some legal experience.

If President Kennedy could appoint his brother to the Cabinet, Richard Nixon felt he at least could offer his brother a minor government job. Ed happens to be a conscientious, likeable fellow fully qualified for government service.

Ed chose a government job in Alaska because he happens to like Alaska, but when the new federal law against nepotism was called to his attention, he immediately abandoned his plans in the middle of his Anchorage house hunting.

Note—The nepotism law was intorduced by Rep. Neal Smith, Iowa Democrat, and finally passed as a result of reaction to the Sen. Tom Dodd misbehavior.

Doubtful ABM

Doubts about the controversial, multi-billion-dollar anti-ballistic missile system are beginning to bubble to the surface even inside the Pentagon.

Chief justification for the ABM program is to protect our offensive weapons, namely the Minutemen, from being wiped out in a single, saturation attack. To do this an enemy would have to accomplish hundreds of Pearl Harbors simultaneously by destroying all our retaliatory weapons. Unless there was a total knockout, the United States would be able to strike back with such a devastating blow that the cost to the enemy would be too terrible.

Secretary of Defense Laird is trying to peddle the idea that Russia is now building a first-strike capability, which by 1976, he believes, would produce enough first-line missiles to knock out our entire retaliatory force in one surprise blow.

Some of Laird's subordinates, however, don't believe it. They are tipping off Senators that Russia will never be able to deliver a knockout blow during the 1970s. Thereafter, the ABM system probably would be obsolete.

These experts point out Laird is assuming Russia might fire all her missles at the United States in one massive salvo. Actually, Russia is deploying at least 20 per cent of her missiles against Red China.

Russia wouldn't dare fire all her missles at the United States and leave herself wide open to Chinese attack.

This means Russia isn't likely to risk war with the United States.

The Red Army marshals have always been cautious in war and have placed first priority upon defense. If they should ever decide upon a broadside against the United States, they not only would want to keep enough missiles to hold China at bay but they would almost certainly retain several reserve missiles in case the attack was not successful. From 20 to 40 per cent of the missiles could be expected either to misfire or to miss their target. It would take a direct hit to knock out a Minuteman missile in its underground silo.

All these imponderables, according to the experts, would demand more millises than the Russians should be able to produce during the 1970s. In other words, the whole theory behind the ABM system is subject to challenge.

America's Ambassador to U.N. Is Unknown by Man in Street

NEW YOR K— (NEA) — It takes Charles Woodruff Yost a leisurely 15 minutes to walk from his apartment in the Waldorf at 50th and Park to his office at 45th Street and First Avenue, overlooking the United Nations plaza.

He arrives promptly at 8:45 every morning. Yost is a precise man.

He can browse at store windows along the way. He stops leisurely at the traffic lights. He can get lost in the crowds on Third Avenue scurrying to work in the glass towers. No one bothers him. Or recognizes him.

Yost is the 10th United States Ambassador to the United Nations, officially the Permanent Representative. And the name without the title wouldn't get him past Sam, the maitre d' at Toots Shor's.

He holds the job that was once held by Adlai E. Stevenson and Arthur J. Goldberg, Henry Cabot Lodge and Edward R. Stettinius. But you could walk down the main street of Sauk Centre, Minn., and get 10-to-1 odds no one ever heard of Charles W. Yost.

"There is" he admits, "a definie advantage in having the voice of a prestigious figure represent the United States. But it's also nice to have someone who hasn't a domestic political stake."

Yost is sitting in his corner office on the third floor of the modern building which houses the U.S. legation, the East River coursing past the big windows, Brooklyn just across the way. In it, he even looks inconspicuous. He is slight and thin. He wears a brown tweed suit with a vest and brown shoes. His voice is soft and reedy.

There is nothing in the antiseptic office to show that here is a man who collected Buddhas from Laos and art, sculputre and bronzes from the Middle East. Yost was a career diplomat almost all of his adult life, from the time he entered the foreign service in 1930 at the age of 23 until he officially retired 36 years later.

He settles into an upholstered side chair and drags a leg over the arm, then self-consciously withdraws it and sits primly. His hands are active, clasped and unclasped. They're the most animate thing about Yost.

"This represents the culmination of a career," he says. "I had retired three years ago and was occupied with the Council on Foreign Relations. I was just about to go to Paris, where I had accepted a post as executive director of the Atlantic institute, when this opportunity came along."

President Richard M. Nixon had first offered the post of U. N. Ambassador to Hubert H. Humphrey.

"Last summer," continues the ambassador, "I headed up a task force for Humphrey during the election campaign. It's partly due to that I'm in the job. President Nixon wanted a Democrat in it."

In 1961, Yost had first been appointed by President Kennedy as deputy representative to the U. N. Security Council and served under Ambassadors Stevenson and Goldberg, so he was stepping into a familiar situation.

"I've been a long-time believer in the United Nations," he says earnestly. "I was at the Dumbarton Oaks conference as an assistant to Edward Stettinius. I worked on the committee which drafted chapters six and seven of the U. N. charter, dealing with peaceful settlement and security."

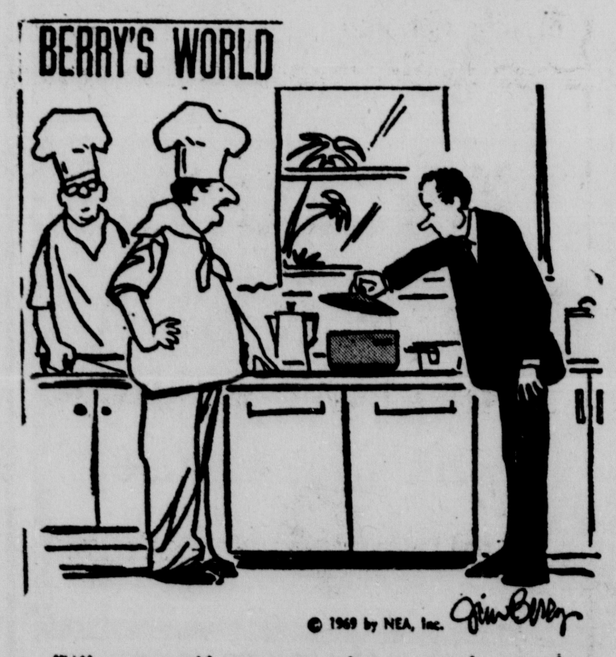

And yet, the listener notes, the man on the street has come to think of the U. N. as a do-nothing, impotent factor in the quest for world peace.

"Even if that were true," he answers, "it would be useful. There's a hell of a lot of business transacted here." And here for a moment he doesn't sound like stripes and cutaways and the tinkle of diplomatic tea cups. "This is one place where foreign ministers and prime ministers can get together. I can talk with Arab states with whom we have no realtions."

Yost, an expert on the Middle East, has been a prime mover for the four-power talks to discuss the strife in that area. Once a week, on the average, he goes to Washington to attend a cabinet meeting or sit with the National Security Council. His other days are spent in meetings with staff members, calls on other ambassadors, working lunches, one or more receptions in the afternoon, dinner parties five times a week.

It was an experience that frustrated some of the direct-action men of public life who preceded him in the job.

"Someone like myself," says a man who has lived in Syria and Morocco and other way stations of the world, "is more accustomed, perhaps, to frustration."

"When you said you were going to spend some time considering 'the whole area of domestic thinking,' I didn't know you meant THIS!"

Complaints Over Taxes Have Hit 17-Year High

PRINCETON, N. J., Complaints among the general public about the size of the tax bite have reached a 17-year high. With seen persons in every ten (69 per cent) now saying that the amount they pay in federal income taxes is "too high," the threat of "taxpayer revolts" may become a very real one if taxes continue to rise.

The percentage of adults complaining about their taxes this year is 17 points higher than in the last previous measurement, in 1966, and only two points under the all-time high point reached in 20 years of surveys on the subject. This record high, 71 per cent, was recorded in the Spring of 1952, 21 months after the beginning of the Korean War.

After the outbreak of war in Korea in 1950, the proportion of tax complainers actually declined — surveys have shown the public generally willing to accept higher taxes when they felt they were needed for the nation's defense. But by 1952—with Americans then feeling that our entrance into the Korean was was a mistake—complaints about high taxes soared.

Vietnam War A Factor

Some of the upsurge in tax complaints since 1966 is due to widespread discouragement over the Vietnam war. Surveys over many months have shown a majority of Americans believing that our involvement in Vietnam was a mistake.

"Taxes are way out of line. We are paying through the teeth for wars we have no business being in," was the view of a 44-year old business executive from Jamaica, N. Y., interviewed in the latest survey.

'Hard to Make Ends Meet'

Here is a sample of what people are saying about their taxes this year:

A 29-year old Evansille, Ind., housewife complained: "It seems to me like my husband leaves half of his check at work. I don't think they are spending money for the right things. A lot of it is wasted and I'll bet half of it goes into the pockets of some politician."

A 24-year-old laborer from Chicago, Ill., said: "With prices being as high as they are, I can hardly make enough to support my family. Besides, $600 is not enough to support one child for half a year, much less a whole year."

Upset About Tax Surcharge

Many Americans are upset about the 10 per cent tax surcharge to be continued this year. "This surcharge is going too far — it's adding insult to injury," sadi a 49-year-old plant manager.

A 39-year old Illinois farmer was angry: "It is a man's inherent right to do the best he can and earn what he can, but then Uncle Sam comes along and takes half of it away."

Taxes 'About Right'

Although the large majority of Americans today eagerly seek tax relief, at least one person in four thinks the amount of federal income taxes he pays is "about right."

A Fremont, Calif., resident who lives in an area of expensive homes said: "Taxes are about what they should be. We live in a free nation and are enjoying the benefits that our tax dollars support."

Another who says "about right" is a 52 year old housewife, also from California, who said: "The government has to have money to operate. Where's it going to come from if people don't fork it over?"

At a time when many of the nation's taxpayers were in the throes of struggling with this year's tax forms, the Gallup Poll assigned its interviewers to repeat a question which has been asked at tax time in previous years since 1949:

Do you consider the amount of Federal income tax which you have to pay as too high, about right, or too low?

Income Tax Amount

	PER CENT
Too high	69
About right	25
Too low	*
No opinion	6

Here is the 20-year trend:

Per Cent Saying Taxes Are Too High

1949	43
1950	56
1951	52
1952	71
1953	59
1957	61
1959	51
1961	46
1962	48
1963	52
1964	55
1966	52
1969	69

Analysis of the results by key population groups shows little political party affiliation, race, sex, or in terms of income.

Tax Sharing

With many Americans upset about the heavy flow of tax money to Washington, sometimes for programs that they do not like, the idea of a tax sharing plan hits a responsive chord.

Plan Favored

The plan provides that 3 per cent of Federal income tax receipts will be returned to state and local governments to be used as they see fit. Seven in ten Americans (71 per cent) say they would favor such a plan.

Editor The Freeman:

Mr. Robert L. Post of the American Legion Post 150 has written an interesting letter to the Freeman (March 23). If we substitute Fatherland where he uses United States, Poland for Vietnam, Jew for Communist, etc., we see that his letter is similar to the ranting of Adolf Hitler.

The thing Mr. Post's letter symbolizes the least is Americanism and Democracy. I hope the two are synonymous.

Mr. Post would have us choose between the United States, right or wrong, and Communism. Why not realize that if our country were right, as conceived by its founders, there would be no choice Freedom and Democracy, which are being lost in the United States if practiced here, would outshine Communism and the world would struggle to follow our example.

The world now looks at our example, and the Mr. Posts defending it, and looks away in dismay.

Mr. Post would have you believe God is sure defense against Communism. God has a long history of being on both sides of bloody conflicts. God and the Pope supported Hitler at the same time God supported the United States in the Second World War.

Then, in the true spirit of democracy, Mr. Post would deny that which he defends, "...don't make the mistake of giving him the opportunity to talk to or entertain the youth..."

Does Mr. Post think so little of his Americanism and Democracy? He makes them sound like great bubbles of hot air that will surely burst at the least prick. Surely the best of all possible Government Systems is made of sounder stuff.

Today's youth are not as naive as the youth of past generations, Mr. Post. You cannot tell them we have a Democracy as they watch you deny people their vote because they are Black, Yellow or Indian. You cannot tell them we have freedom as you pass laws against being poor, or having long hair, or minding one's own business. You cannot tell them we have equality as they watch the inequalities of our society.

What you are doing, Mr. Post, is defending a bubble of hot air. The bubble is the Protestant Ethic and the hot air is the money-Military Industrial Complex. This bubble and this hot air work against the ideas of Washington, Franklin and Jefferson. This bubble is bursting, Mr. Post. With proper work and dedication, we will return to the ideals of Americanism and Democracy. Then there will be an alternative to Communism.

Why doesn't Mr. Post do something constructive rather than make the United States more dismal than it is.

Soviets' Machine-Gun Fire Halts Czechoslovakia Ice Celebration

PRAGUE (UPI)—Soviet occupation troops fired submachine guns into the air to drive off demonstrators who smashed 160 windows in their barracks in celebration of a Czechoslovak hockey victory over the Soviets, a regional newspaper said today.

The newspaper Svoboda (freedom) said demonstrations broke out in Mlada Boleslav, 35 miles northeast of Prague, Friday night after the Czechoslovaks had beaten the Soviets for the second time in Stockholm.

It said the demonstrators hurled bottles and rocks and the Soviet troops fired submachine-guns into the air at one point and kept the gates to their miliary compound locked.

It was the same night that demonstrators sacked the offices of the Soviet airline Aeroflot in a celebration in Prague's Wenceslas Square.

In Moscow, the Soviets accused Czechoslovak Communist leaders of permitting "reactionary elements" to use sports "in the struggle against the socialist order."

The Communist party newspaper Pravda charged Jozef Smrkovsky, Czechoslovak Parliament leader, with taking part in a demonstration in Prague's Wenceslas Square Friday to celebrate a Czechoslovak ice hockey victory over the Soviets in Stockholm.

The crowd sacked the offices of the Soviet airline Aeroflot. Pravda said the demonstration was anti-Soviet.

Youths Grab Woman's Purse

A second purse-snatching incident was reported to city police Sunday at 7:15 p. m. by Mrs. Jennie Burger of 347 Washington Avenue, who said two youths grabbed her pocketbook and fled as she was walking on Lucas Avenue.

Det. Lieut. Lemuel Howard said the handbag contained about 50 cents and a checkbook. The woman said the youths shoved her against a hedge in front of 27 Lucas Avenue and ran off after taking the bag.

Detectives continued investigation of a similar incide which occurred on St. Jam Street last Friday. A man portedly grabbed a hand from a registered nurse disappeared on Clinton Av The woman said the thief $17 and valuable pe papers.

Suicide Ruled In Death of S. I. Youth

KINGSTON

A verdict of suicide by gunshot wound has been reported by authorities in the death of 15-year-old of 250 Sharp Avenue, Staten Island, whose body was found in a wooded area near Phoenicia by a posse on Saturday.

Coroner William S. Keyser's report noted the boy's death resulted from lacerations of the brain due to gunshot wound, self-inflicted.

State Police using bloodhounds from Hawthorne assisted by Phoenicia firemen and State Conservation Department men, searched for the boy after it was reported by a relative that he went into the woods at 5:30 p. m. Friday and had not returned to the home of his aunt, of Phoenicia where he was visiting.

Kingston State Police BCI Investigator W. E. Wiedemann conducted an investigation, which authorities said would be continued in an effort to establish a motive.

Railroad Industry, Union Reach Contract Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The railroad industry and the signalmen's union, negotiating under threat of government intervention, have reached agreement on a new contract, averting a crippling nationwide rail strike.

With the Nixon administration poised to seek a congressionally imposed settlement in the event of a strike negotiators for the industry and the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen announced Sunday they had agreed on an 18-month contract.

The announcement came with less than a day to go before today's 6 a.m. strike deadline and after around-the-clock negotiation sessions. The contract actually won't go into effect until ratified by the union's 10,000 members, who vote later this week. Details of the agreement were not released.

If a strike had been called and the other rail unions refused to cross signalmen picket lines, it would have been the second nationwide shutdown of the industry in two years.

The 1967 strike, called by six rail unions, resulted in Congress passing a law requiring the two sides to reach agreement in 90 days or face a congressionally imposed contract.

Labor Secretary George P. Shultz indicated last week he would seek similar legislation in the event of a strike this year. "The government simply isn't going to tolerate a national railroad strike," he said.

An administration study put together to bolster government arguments for congressional intervention, reportedly argued that a countrywide rail strike would have dire economic consequences.

The study reportedly found that besides the 137,000 railroad employes that could be affected, a weeklong strike would have put about 1 million other people out of work. A two-week shutdown would have pushed the figure up to 1.5 million, with a three week strike resulting in 3 million workers off the job.

The major stumbling block to a contract had been union demands for an extra pay for skilled workers retroactive from July 1, 1968 and an additional skill differential to be effective next July 1.

Douglas' Picture Gloomy About American Society

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas painted a gloomy picture of the nation in a speech here Saturday and said a restructuring of society was needed to overcome a sense of futility among young people across the country.

Justice Douglas presented his forecast at the dedication of the Campus Center Albany State University.

He found little to be encouraged about in American society.

The younger generation is rebeling, said Justice Douglas, because of militarism, racial prejudice, bias against the poor, destruction of the environment and the "faceless bureaucracy."

The military, he said, has ruled the country since the days of the Truman administration but he predicted to more than 450 students and faculty that preparedness is no more a deterrent to war than the death penalty is to murder.

Turning to the other areas, Justice Douglas complained that bias against the poor is written into our laws, that the food stamp program has minor impact on hunger in America, and that decisions affecting the people are made by "faceless bureaucrats . . . frightened to death by the Joe McCarthys of this century."

He discounted racial problems as a major cause of rebellion in America, saying that only police practices and housing and empoyment policies have been anti-Negro.

On the subject of the poor, he said farm subsidies pay farmers more not to grow food than the poor receives to feed themselves.

POLKA DOT GIRL DIES — A young woman who may have been the mysterious girl in a polka dot dress sought in the Robert F. Kennedy assassination has died of a drug overdose, police said. Kathy Fullmer, 23, who worked as a go-go dancer under the name of Sundy Rossi, checked into a motel in suburban El Sereno, Calif. early Monday and left a call for 5:30 p. m. When the motel management got no response to the 5:30 call, it opened the door and found Miss Fullmer in a coma, apparently from an overdose of seconal. Miss Fullmer surrendered to the police last June, saying she believed she was the woman in a polka dot dress seen running from the Ambassador Hotel the night Kennedy was shot. She was released after questioning. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Car Crashes After Chase; Driver Cited

MARLBORO — A high speed chase along Route 9W in this township late Saturday night, ended when the pursued vehicle went out of control and rolled down an embankment after crashing into guard rails.

Trooper Jerry Henne was on patrol at 11:15 p.m. Saturday when he clocked a car traveling 65 miles an hour. As the trooper turned on the flashing red light of the police vehicle, the driver of the other car took off at a high speed.

During the pursuit the cars hit a speed of 100 miles an hour, authorities reported. Henne cited the driver of the speeding vehicle, Brian Cook of Cornwall for driving while intoxicated, reckless driving, failure to comply with an order of a police officer, driving without a license and speeding..

Dorpian Man Stabbed to Death, Woman Held

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — A 30-year-old man was stabbed to death early today in an apartment, and a woman was held for questioning.

The body of James Thomas of Schenectady was found in the State Street apartment after the woman went to the office of the Schenectady County sheriff to report "someone was stabbed."

City police said the woman and Thomas apparently had argued shortly before the stabbing at about 5:30 a.m.

Police withtheld her identity, pending questioning.

They said Thomas, well-known as one of the better bowlers in Schenectady County, was stabbed several times. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Ellis Hospital here.

Smith lived at 360 Summit St. Police said he was stabbed at 721 State St.

In Memoriam

In sad and loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Emma DeCicco Mayhon, who passed away 11 years ago today, April 14, 1958.

Her memory is as dear today
As in the hour she passed away.

MOTHER, DAD, SISTERS and BROTHERS

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Catherine D. Smith, who passed away four years ago, April 12, 1965.

In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear mother,
That we do not think of you.

HUSBAND, SONS and DAUGHTERS

Memoriam

In memory of my beloved husband and father, Orville Carney, who passed away 10 years ago, April 13, 1959.

Those we love go out of sight,
But never out of minds,
They are cherished in the hearts
Of those they leave behind.

More Than 600 At GOP Social

KINGSTON

More than 600 persons attended the Republican City Committee social evening held Saturday at the New York State Armory.

Declared a social and financial success, the affair is the forerunner of other social events planned for the future.

The first such occasion held on a city-wide basis since Ward Ingalsbe assumed the city chairmanship, thes success of the affair indicated the "GOP is definitely on the move," according to the dance committee.

James A. Rapp was chairman, assisted by Harry Kapreilian, Hildra Krum, David Rylance and James Martin.

Glue Sniffing Charged to Pair

HYDE PARK

Two youths were arrested Saturday by Dutchess county deputy sheriffs on charges of glue sniffing.

James L. Augustine, 19, of East Dorsey Lane, pleaded guilty before Wappinger Town Justice Vincent Francese. Sentencing was put over until April 19. The case of the other defendant, 18-year-old Stephen G. Robinson, 18, of 11 Ledgewood Drive, was referred to Town Justice Harold Mangold for hearing on April 22.

The youths were taken into custody after Poughkeepsie Cadet Officer James Precious reported that he saw the teenagers inhaling glue fumes.

Heart Lists Prize to Spur Research Career

KINGSTON

As a means of encouraging young research workers to pursue careers in the field of basic science, the American Heart Association has established a $1,500 prize to be awarded annually for independent studies in the cardiovascular field, it was announced by Dr. Alfred M. Feldshuh, president of the Mid-Hudson Heart Assosiation.

Named the "Louis N. Katz Basic Science Research Prize for Young Investigators," the award was founded by the Associations Council on Basic Science. It will be conferred each year on a researcher under age 36 who is engaged in a career in basic science, including basic medical sciences, engineering, mathematics, behavioral sciences, physics, chemistry or biology. The winner will be chosen on the merits of an unpublished manuscript dealing with studies related to cardiovascular phenomena.

The initial $5,500 stipend and a certificate will be bestowed during the American Heart Association's 1969 Scientific Sessions. These are being held from Nov. 13-16 in Memorial Auditorium, Dallas, Tex. The winner will be invited to present his research results there at a meeting of the Council on Basic Science.

Upstate Crash Kills Seneca Indian Leader

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A Seneca Indian leader who once led the Iroquois Confederation of six tribes, was killed Sunday night in a two-car crash that also claimed the life of another man.

Police in suburban Greece said Freeman Johnson, 82, of Greece, was pronounced dead at the scene. The second man, John Maltby, 61, of Rochester, also died instantly. Johnson's wife, Arlene, 54, suffered multiple injuries and was listed in poor condition at Rochester General Hospital.

The collision occurred as the car carrying the Johnsons and Maltby made a left turn on Dewey Avenue, police said.

Johnson, known to the Seneca people as Gah-Squa-e-Wo, or Handsome Stone, was grand sachem (chief) of the Iroquois Confederation from 1941 to 1947.

He attended the Carlisle, Pa., Indian School from 1900 to 1907 and played on the football team there with the legendary Jim Thorpe. He moved to the Rochester area in 1909.

Transplant Patient Dies; Lived in State

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A 51-year-old retired welder, who received the heart of a college student from Lockport, N.Y. in a transplant operation last October, died Sunday in Methodist Hospital.

William C. Harrison of Longview, Tex., had been in the hospital's intensive care unit due to a ruptured colon, which had formed an abcess.

A hospital spokesman said an autopsy would be performed to determine the exact cause of death but that the preliminary cause was attributed to the ruptured colon.

Last Oct. 17, Harrison received the heart of Frederick W. Corson II, 20, in an operation performed by Dr. Michael DeBakey in Methodist Hospital.

Corson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Corson, had died earlier that day of injuries suffered Sept. 30 in a traffic accident near Atlanta, Ga.

Young Corson was a student at Oglethorpe College in Georgia. His father is publisher of the Lockport Union-Sun & Journal.

Labor Warns Nixon On Inflation Fears

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (AP) — An unusual closed-door meeting between some of the nation's top union leaders and high Nixon administration officials opened today with a labor warning that the President may be pulling too hard on the anti-inflation brakes.

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, called the three-day conference between leaders of his fderation and the administration officials to discuss labor fears that some government acts to fight inflation may result in increasing unemployment.

Attending the meeting were Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy, Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz; Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, Budget Director Robert P. Mayo and White House counselor Arthur F. Burns.

In spite of an unusual secrecy order by Meany AFL-CIO sources said privately that he is critical of Nixon's planned budget cuts in urban and other domestic programs. Meany is said to feel the 10 per cent income surtax and recent credit-tightening moves already were slowing the economy.

Want Assurance

The labor men were described as seeking assurance from the invited government participants that the lid won't be clamped so tightly on government spending and private borrowing that workers are squeezed out of jobs.

"We want to make sure the whole administration gets the message that labor will not tolerate using unemployment as a weapon against inflation," one AFL-CIO official said.

President Nixon has given his personal assurances to that effect. He sent a letter to the AFL-CIO executive council meeting in Florida last month saying: "We must find ways to curb inflation, which robs working men and women and their families of hard-earned gains. And we must do this without asking the wage earners to pay for the cost of stability with their jobs."

Meany praised Nixon's statement. But a new wave of concern went through the labor movement with Nixon's budget announcement on Saturday.

The President reported that sharp reductions in spending would make possible a surplus of $5.8 billion in fiscal 1970, the highest surplus in 18 years.

The labor men noted, however, that most of the squeezing was on the domestic side of the budget: military cuts totaled $1.1 billion, domestic cuts $2.9 billion.

Some of the domestic curtailments are known to affect urban and welfare programs supported by labor.

Doubts Put Aside

The doubts about the administration's policy were not put aside by Burns, who said in Washington Sunday he could not promise that efforts to stem inflation would not bring some rise in the unemployment rate.

"All I can say to you is that I am reasonably confident that we can carry through the present policy of slowing down the pace of inflation without a significant increase in unemployment."

Four Arrested After Robbery In Poughkeepsie

MONROE

Three men and a youth were apprehended Saturday afternoon on the State Thruway south of Newburgh in connection with an armed robbery at a Poughkeepsie grocery store earlier in the day.

Poughkeepsie police sent out teletype alarms after Ben Levy, owner of Ben's Market on Pershing Avenue in that city, reported he had been robbed at gun point by two men who took his wrist watch and about $50 in cash. Levy is a brother of Kingston Detective Meyer Levy.

Levy told police the two men were carrying guns.

State Troopers Robert E. Connors and Thomas Kirwan spotted a car traveling on the superhighway, and ordered the driver to stop. Troopers said they found two automatic hand guns in the vehicle.

Authorities identified the four taken into custody as, Harry Johnson, 40, of 126 West 126th street, New York City; John Outlaw, 21, of Panic Avenue, Westbury; Carl Smith Jr., 19, of 187 Prospect Street, Westbury, and Edward Lee Summer, 30, of 10 West 135th Street, New York City, a former Poughkeepsie resident.

Poughkeepsie police recalled that Levy's store was the scene of a robbery on July 8, 1965, when the storekeeper was assaulted and robbed by two men.

Due in City Court

Robert Kilgour, 34, of Red Hook, was arrested Saturday by the Dutchesss county sheriff's men, on a charge of unauthorized use of a car belonging to Hertz Rental Service, according to police. Kilgour was turned over to Kingston detectives for arraignment in City court.

GM
MARK OF EXCELLENCE

Nobody takes your pleasure as seriously as we do.

(A lot of hard work goes into making Chevrolet driving a soft job.)

One of the reasons you can take off in a Chevrolet with hardly a worry in the world is that we have some pretty good guys to do your worrying for you. They try to anticipate just about any driving problem you may face, and design Chevrolets in such a manner as to leave you one up. Here are some examples.

Super Scoop for the Camaro

As engine temperatures escalate, so does the need for air. Hence, Super Scoop, a good-looking addition to the Camaro SS or Z/28 hood shovels up cooler outside air and shoots it to the carburetor to boost performance. And get this. The door of the scoop is power operated so it lets in more air whenever you need it.

Side Guard Door Beam

Ever drive along a freeway and notice that heavy guard rail in the center that separates you from the oncoming traffic?

Well, now a new Side Guard Door Beam is in every full-size Chevrolet—Caprice, Impala, Bel Air, Biscayne, Kingswood Estate, Kingswood, Townsman and Brookwood.

It puts a guard rail on either side of you—inside the doors. And not surprisingly they look a good deal like the ones you see along the road—heavy bars of corrugated steel.

Headlight washer

Face it. Into each vacation a little rain will probably fall, and it's going to mess up not only the window glass but the headlights of your car. Chevrolet has a slick device you can order that washes your headlights as you drive.

You just push a button and pulsating jets of washer-solvent flush the grime and road dirt off your outboard headlight lenses. A great foul weather friend.

Anti-Theft Lock System

There's nothing quite so distressing as coming out of a restaurant in a strange town, heading toward your car and discovering it's gone.

Which is why we've made the '69 Chevrolet such a tough car to steal. When you take your ignition key with you (and we have a buzz to remind you to do just that) you lock not only the ignition but the steering wheel and transmission selector lever as well.

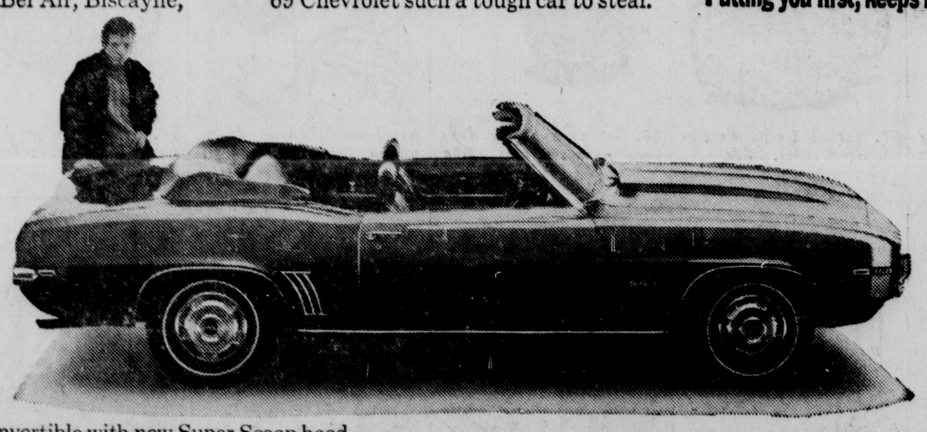

Bigger and better base engines

To keep you out of trouble you need an engine that's as quick as your reflexes. That's why Chevrolet installs the biggest standard V8 and Six in its field on its full-size models.

By the way, these are the regular gas base engines we're talking about. If you want to order the most powerful V8 engine in its field, period, Chevrolet's got that, too. It's one of many choices you have in Chevrolet's Sports-Recreation Dept.

Now that you know about a few of the ways Chevrolet assists you, why not stop in at your Chevrolet dealer's and learn about a good many more. Nobody is going to spoil your good time, if Chevrolet has anything to say about it.

Putting you first, keeps us first.

Five Cited For Fishing, No Licenses

NEW PALTZ — Four men and a youth were cited by Highland State Police Sunday for fishing in the Walkill River without a license. They all appeared before Town Justice Rexford Schneider and three were fined $10 each.

Fines were imposed on Johnny Winthrie, 37, and Clinton Jones, 28, both of 28 North Perry Street, Poughkeepsie and 16-Year-old Martin Wells, of Kerkonkson.

Aaron Simpson, 38, of Plutarch Road, New Paltz, and Raymond Hamilton, 49, of Middletown each received an unconditional discharge.

The charges were made by Troopers C.J. Bebensee and G.P. Rebhan.

Several Fires In the County During Weekend

WOODSTOCK — Brush and grass fires erupted in many districts of Ulster County during the weekend and gave firefighters and conservation department men considerable trouble in combatting the blazes.

One of the worst brush fires occurred in a wooded area at the foot of Oldebark Mountain on the former Wolven farm in the Woodstock fire district Sunday afternoon. Companies 1 and 3 responded to an alarm about 3 p.m., and firemen were at the scene until after 5 p.m. checking the spread of the flames that threatened a house.

Firemen were in command of Chief Duncan Wilson and Capt. Phillips Eighmey, and conservation department men were in charge of Ranger Aaron Vandebogart. The fire burned over several acres, a department member reported.

Upwards of 35 calls were recorded at the Fire Control Center for grass and brush fires in the county communities.

Three Ticketed By City Police

KINGSTON — Three motorists were cited by city police over the weekend on charges of making unnecessary noises with the tires of their cars and making an unsafe start as they took off to drive the vehicles.

Summoned to appear in City Court were Charles D. Bassett, 26, of 108 Gage Street; Robert C. Rountree, 22, of Lake Katrine, and William Cassidy, 26, of Neighborhood Road, Lake Katrine.

James M. Hall, 19, of 130 South Manor Avenue, was summoned on a charge of driving a motor vehicle with four unsafe tires.

Cancer Crusade Starts in City, $9,500 Is Listed as Goal

KINGSTON — More than 6,000 calls will be made by 20 captains and more than 150 volunteer canvassers in the City of Kingston Cancer Crusade which starts this week.

City Co-Chairmen Melvin Mones and Felix J. Ambrose announced that this year's goal is $9,500 to be used by the American Cancer Society for its program of education, research and patient care. Volunteers have started making door-to-door calls and will continue toward the final push in the city on April 21. All call backs to those not at home when the crusader called, should be completed by that time, the co-chairmen said.

Cancer Crusaders will wear identifying badges and will distribute an educational booklet to each home. "This important literature may be instrumental in saving your life or the life of one near and dear to you," co-chairmen emphasized.

For the purposes of the campaign the old ward designations have been used in announcing captains for each section of the city. They include the following:

First — Mrs. James Rapp and Mrs. Thomas Gallagher; Second — Donald Droulette and Bert Davis; Fourth — Miss Dawn Fitzpatrick; Fifth — Sixth — Richard Kelderhouse; Seventh — Mrs. John Buck; Eighth-Ninth — Mrs. Hilda Krum; 10th — Mrs. Florence Shea Ludlow; 11th — Mrs. Nancy White and Mrs. Evelyn Wiener; 12th — Elmer Carney, and 13th — Mrs. Virginia Sutton and William G. Davis. A captain for the Third Ward has not been confirmed at this time.

The county goal is $50,000, according to Dennis L. Pitcock, county campaign chairman. The importance of this year's Crusade is stressed by statistics that show more than 50 million Americans now living will eventually have cancer. Financial help for greater research can bring a cure that can save many of these.

Adding a second bathroom isn't splurging.

It's living.

We're in banking, not plumbing.

Yet even we know that in this age of affluence there are still people who can find reasons not to make their homes more comfortable.

"After all," they say, "we're not going to live there forever."

Or: "Someday the kids will go to college and then what will we do with it?"

Down deep, of course, we think they're really concerned about money. Well, we have some suggestions that beat standing in line.

When it comes to home improvement we're in a position to know all kinds of ways to help you work out the costs and take that plunge.

The State of New York National Bank loan officers aren't just moneylenders. They're experienced bankers. They may not glad-hand you but when they discuss an improvement loan they can also show you ways to trim expenses.

They know how home improvement loans mean deductions in taxes. And some of them have become so knowledgeable about construction, they might even give you some pointers on plumbing. If you want them to.

You'll also find that a second bathroom doesn't have to take you to the cleaners.

You'll find a banker at The State of New York National Bank.

Broadway Orpheum Theater: Memories Still Linger On

By SHANE CROSBY

KINGSTON

Billed as "The most beautiful picture house along the Hudson," the old, and now gone, Orpheum Theater stood majestically on lower Broadway here for more than 75 years offering live and filmed entertainment to countless numbers of ticket holders.

Urban renewal brought about a most ungraceful end to the building last month, but memories remain vivid in the minds of the Sherry family owners and their many customers.

From "The Big Girlie Shows" before the 1920's, through vaudeville, silent flicks such as Dorothy Dalton in "Unfaithful," up to the 1960's and the current list of Hollywood names, the Orpheum had customers on the edge of their seats.

One member of the Sherry family made occasional visits to the theater during its death throes at the hands of wrecking crews and reported on the demise of what was a major part of two generations of the family.

Philip Sherry and his wife, Eva, took over the Orpheum about 1914 and began to make it the proud landmark that the movie house was. They brought acts from New York City and other out of town theater centers for shows here and embanked on a career in their own Broadway show business.

Mrs. Sherry continued to operate the theater after her husband's death in the late 1950's and after a few years of reducing the number of showings, the Orpheum closed around 1959. Records are vague on the exact date or the title of the last showing, but the big hit of 1959 was Marilyn Monroe and Jack Lemmon in "Some Like It Hot."

Highlights of the Orpheum's bright past include, in 1920, "The Big Girlie Show that the U. S. Government played in all the big Army camps." The "Girlie Show" was apparently composed of "20 girlies under 20," who were advertised as being "full of pep."

Ted Riccobono of Bloomington accompanied many a performance at the Orpheum with an old foot peddle organ in the late 1920's, when George Walsh was double billed with Hoot Gibson during the silent film era.

One show that stays on the minds of most who were connected with the Orpheum was the silent film spectacular "King of Kings," that played on the screen for a solid week of "continuous showings." The sidewalk around the theater was lined with patrons.

Special

Trolley cars carried movie goers to lower Broadway and the Orpheum, where 886 persons could be seated.

The family decided to take down the balcony after one too many water bombs dropped on an unsuspecting patron in the lower section, according to a daughter, Mrs. Shirley Bahl of Colfax Place.

Most members of the family had their chance to work in the Orpheum, said Mrs. Bahl, and most of them recalled vivid encounters with unruly youngsters at children's shows.

When the young movie goers were not making water bombs, she can recall the din of the noise they produced as shows flashed on and off the screen.

The kids' antics must have been matched, if not out done, by the din of the more adult patrons as the "not so great" vaudiville performers went on and off stage and the first "talkies" had their habits of running sound a moment or so ahead or the speakers' lips.

The sounds of the Orpheum are gone today and were replaced for a brief time in March by the sounds of axes and crowbars as progress moved in where Broadway marquee lights filled the dim evenings before business made its way uptown in search of customers.

The constant moving of business caused the theater and other spots along a once bright avenue to lose their hold on the public and become lost in the shuffle.

Mrs. Bahl recalled that as business moved away, shows became more and more infrequent until the Orpheum, once the center of attraction in a busy downtown of the early 1900s, closed its doors.

Hoping to Save Ulster Park Reform Church

TOWN OF ESOPUS

Efforts to save an historic church and create a museum will be launched at a meeting Tuesday, April 15, at the Esopus Town Hall in Port Ewen.

The Ulster Park Reformed Church, the third oldest established church in Ulster County, is the object of the preservation effort.

Spearheading the drive to save the church and create a museum within its aged brick walls is Mrs. Edwin Ford. She made a stirring written appeal to save the church in a recent issue of the Ulster County Gazette, Ulster County Historical Society publication, and is now appealing through the meeting Tuesday night.

The public is invited to attend and consider the ways and means of such an effort. Discussion will consider the town need of a museum and whether the old church could serve this purpose rather than be torn down as is now planned.

The church was established Feb. 27, 1791 as the Low Dutch Church and Congregation of Klyne Esopus and served the community for 175 years until it was closed in 1965. Only the Dutch Reformed Churches of Kingston and New Faltz are older than Klyne Esopus. The Ulster Park church served as mother church of the Port Ewen, St. Remy Reformed Churches and the Union Center Community Church.

Onteora Plans Summer Job Placement Help

BOICEVILLE

The guidance department at Onteora Central School will provide a coordinating service in part-time summer employment placement.

Students seeking employment may fill out information forms available at the high school guidance office. Employers may list vacancies with guidance offices in Shokan, Woodstock and Phoenicia schools.

An effort will be made to match applicant with the job. Employers may list any jobs which can be done by a high school student such as garden or lawn work, waiting on table, babysitting or working in stores.

THE SPRINGWALL Chiropractic

FOR THOSE WHO CAN'T GET A GOOD NIGHTS SLEEP

It is a known fact that one cause of morning backaches may be from sleeping on a "too soft" mattress. The Springwall Chiropractic mattress has been designed by the Posture Committee of the American Chiropractic Association to help improve sleep posture and thereby satisfy the needs of those people having trouble getting a good night's rest.

Many people will ask you, "What kind of matress should I sleep on?" Until now you might have had difficulty answering the question with confidence that such a mattress would be available for purchase. At last there exists a complete set of mattress and box spring specifications, distributed on a nationwide basis, evolved by the Posture Committee of the American Chiropractic Association in accordance with the best traditions of the profession.

This bedding set, the SPRINGWALL CHIROPRACTIC, is designed to provide deep down contour and balanced support for all areas of the body, minimal agitation from movement of sleeper or sleeping partner, buoyant surface comfort, and adaptability to persons of varying weight and body type.

THE ONLY MATTRESS AND BOX SPRING CONSTRUCTED IN ACCORDANCE WITH SPECIFICATIONS OF POSTURE COMMITTEE OF AMERICAN CHIROPRACTIC ASSN.

It provides deep down contour and balanced support for all areas of the body, minimal agitation from movement of sleeper or sleeping partners, buoyant surface comfort and adaptability to persons of varying weight and body type.

YWCA Will Celebrate National Y-Week

Be yourself — you do count!

This is the challenge directed toward each woman and girl of the community by the Young Women's Chrisitan Association of Ulster County in celebration of the 22nd annual National YWCA Week, April 20 to 27.

In joining with other YWCAs throughout the nation, Miss Frances Maxwell, executive director, said "This theme is especially imperative today when all women and girls are called upon to make meaningful contributions to their community, nation and world."

"Ours is a time in which the doer, the activist makes news, for good or bad," she continued. "To marshal one's energies into constructive channels beneficial to all members of society requires self-possession, self-assurance tolerance. 'Self' doesn't mean selfishness. Rather, it implies a sense of identity, a pride in one's own being, coupled with the desire and ability to share with others. This is true communication, the way in which barriers come down and peace and justice, freedom and dignity for all people can flourish."

The YWCA of the USA, through program and services, encourages each woman and girl to be an individual and to develop her mind, body and spirit to fullest measure. In the United States today, about 2,000,000 women and girls of 12 and over, of all economic, racial, cultural groups, are counted as members or registered participants in program.

During the past year, the local YWCA has formed a Barrier Breakers Panel. This is a group of women who have experienced discrimination and who share these experiences with other women of the community. By unveiling prejudice, the YWCA hopes to break down barriers which prevent better understanding among people of all races and creeds.

National YWCA is open house time, the time when all YWCAs in the United States work together to reach potential members and acquaint them and the total community with the national and international aspects of the YWCA. The local YWCA will hold open house during the Week of April 20-27, and invite all to stop in to see the working of YWCA and the exhibits by the classes, clubs and committees.

April 22 has been proclaimed local YWCA Day. Further details of the program for that day will be announced.

The Week in Ulster County will be launched on Sunday, Apr. 20, with representatives of the Association going individually or in groups to the church of their choice.

Columban Father Will Speak at K of C Open House

Kingston Council No. 275, Knights of Columbus will hold an open house at the Monday, April 21, meeting at the Council home, 389 Broadway, at which time the Rev. Donal Griffin of the Columban Fathers will be honored.

Born near Kinsale, County Cork, Ireand, Father Griffin entered the College of St. Columban, Navan, Ireland, in 1947. He was ordained a priest in 1954 and sent to Japan that same year where he has worked as a missionary for the past 15 years and where he will return in June at the termination of his vacation.

The Columban Fathers, a missionary society whose object is the evangelization of Oriental peoples, were founded 50 years ago by a Cork-born priest, the Rev. Ed Gavlin who had been an assistant pastor in a Brooklyn parish before deciding that his mission in life lay among the Chinese. To help him in his work, Father Galvin returned to Ireland and founded the Columbans.

After World War II, Columbans were sent to other countries in the orient apart from China, including Japan, Korea, Burma, the Fiji Islands, the Philippine Islands, and to Chile and Peru in South America. At present there are 600 priests at the mission but all are not Irish. Americans and Australians number about half with some members from New Zealand.

In the U. S., the Columban Fathers have seminaries in Silver Creek; in Omaha, Neb.; Milton, Mass.; Bristol, R. I.; and Milwaukee, Wis.

Past Grand Knight Edward Ahl, Francis Noonan, Frank Tiano, John Rice and Frank Castiglione, members of the reception committee, will escort Father Griffin. Joseph F. Saccoman, lecturer, is in charge of arrangemtnts, assisted by Joseph Bruno, coordinator of the Columbiettes of which Mrs. Joseph Bruno is president.

A special invitation has been sent to Mrs. Edward Ahl, supreme director of Columbiettes, who, along with Columbiette members, will assist the Knights at this event. Grand Knight Charles Ryan has announced the meeting is open to other area organizations as well as to the public. Refreshments will be served.

Musical Society

The Musical Society of Kingston presented a program, "Baroque Era of Southern Europe," on Wednesday, April 9 at the home of Mrs. Alfred Sweet, Saugerties. Miss Constance G. Flood and Mrs. Sweet were chairmen.

The harpsichord which was used for the entire program was constructed by Alfred Sweet.

Solos were played by Mrs. Jane Tonneson, Mrs. Ann Rylance, and Mrs. Pat Stedge; Mrs. Marjorie Van Voorhis, violin, accompanied by Mrs. Judy MacIsaac; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sweet, accompanied by Mrs. Jane Tonnesen, A Trio Sonata, two flutes, by Quantz; Mrs. Helen Newcombe, a clarinet solo, accompanied by Mrs. Jane Tonnesen.

Both Modern and Traditional Living Decor Favor White as Overall Theme

TRADITIONAL DECOR

FAVOR WHITE AS OVERALL THEME

White is right, opulent, and it can be practical today. To prove it, look at the same living room, which takes handsomely to a white-on-white decorating scheme, in either a modern or traditional setting.

In both rooms, an easy-care fabric of Eastman Verel modacrylic sets the mood of elegance—demonstrating the successful use of a single fabric employed for wallcovering, sofa upholstery and overdraperies.

To the practical minded, the pure luxury of white-on-white would be taboo except for the easy cleanability and excellent shape and press retention qualities of Verel modacrylic.

Heightening the sumptuous mood, is the rich texture of pile fabric pillows, containing Verel, used en masse on sofa and floor.

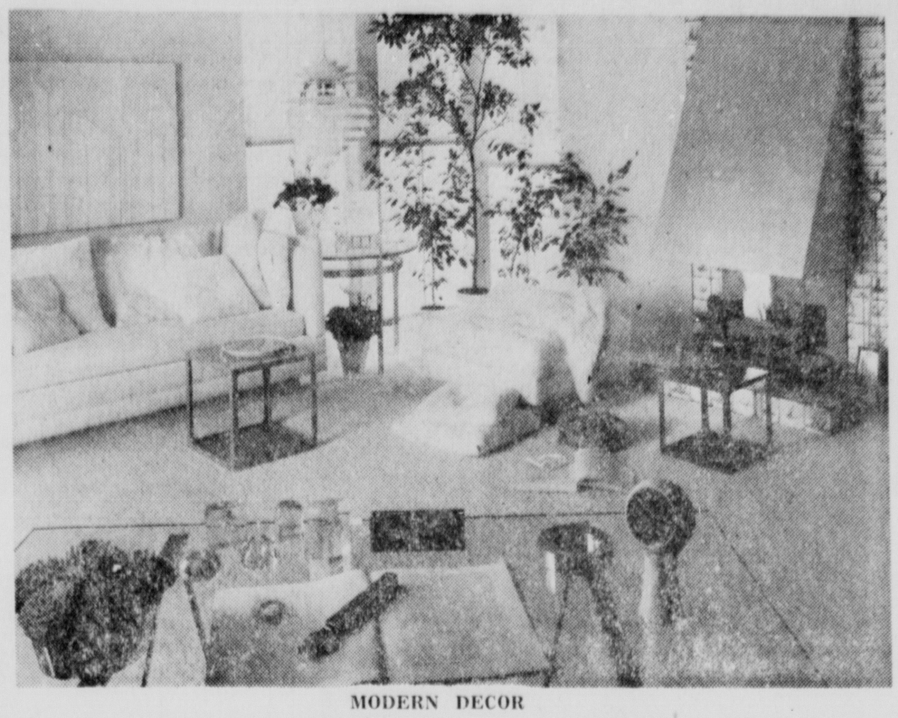

Underlying all is the opulent, deep shag pile carpeting of 100% Eastman Kodel polyester by Monticello. For all its snowy luxe appearance, the shag carpeting strikes an easy-care note because of its resistance to spills and stains, its rugged wear characteristics and ease of cleaning.

Among the notable differences between the two rooms is the window treatment of each. The modern room utilizes Verel modacrylic and rayon window shades to make the most of a light and airy look; while the traditional living room retains the graciousness of heavy overdraperies.

The fireplace, too, points up another area of contrast. In the modern version, a do-it-yourself construction using Contact's blue delft tile paper over plywood is applied to the base and back of the fireplace. The hood is aluminum paintetd plywood. The traditional version places a Faience porcelain stove in front of the same do-it-yourself tile backdrop.

Further emphasizing the two different moods is the generous use of glass and steel coupled with blue and green accents in the modern living room. The traditional setting favors warm, wood hues and a sprinkling of blue and green highlights.

Both living rooms were displayed by Lee Bailey.

MODERN DECOR

The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

People like me who get sentimental and nostalgic about the old country doctor should consider an interview lately published in the New York Times from Dr. Sidney McLouth of a hamlet in upstate New York. Briefly, Dr. McLouth says the country doctor, the old fashioned G. P., who knew all your family history and probably your parents' too, will soon be no more. Advertisements in many small towns offering all sorts of inducements, free office space, a house, and plenty of patients to a doctor who will come and take care of them find no takers.

It is easy to be cynical about this and say that young doctors don't want to bother with night calls or obstetrics or the incurable and unlovely illnesses of the old. And perhaps some of this is true. The country doctor never catches up on his sleep, he often finds himself frighteningly alone in a crisis, malingering people can be a nuisance, and there are plenty of diseases which even modern medicine cannot make appetising.

The American Medical Association has recently taken a step designed to make general practice more attractive. A special board on family practice has been set up to impose rigorous requirements in training and expertise, to compete with specialization in other branches of medicine. The old country doctor, of course, never had such training. He learned at the bedside, and no doubt some of his patients suffered while he was gaining experience. But it is characteristic of our modern world that to make a subject worth pursuing we must make it hard, prescribe years of study, give it status. Call general practice Research and lots of young men and women might turn to it.

Of course even those country doctors who still exist today are not as isolated as they once were. In our town we have one, and he has access to a well equipped and well managed hospital where the care is a match for that in big city institutions. Not maybe for the most unusual disease. If you had some rare tropical bug, perhaps a city hospital with a special staff in that field might be the answer. Perhaps the first brain surgeon or cardiologist or physiotherapist would not come to our town. But the medical men in our town would know when such top flight practioners were needed, and meanwhile they are thoroughly competent to carry on.

Dr. McLouth had one suggestion which is worth noting. We ask too much of doctors, he said. "My Aunt Hannah used to patch up half the things I sometimes do today." Aunt Hannah and the book on first aid. She can't take care of a third degree burn, but the sprains and cuts and splinters and fevers that everybody gets Aunt Hannah can probably look after pretty well.

The trouble with the world is that not only the country doctors but the Aunt Hannahs are disappearing from modern life.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST of the Emily Post Institute

"Mr." Used During Formal Interviews

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband is presently job-interviewing in anticipation of receiving his degree in June. He finds himself in the awkward position of not knowing whether to call those interviewing him by their first or last names. With someone much older, he of course says "Mr. Jones," but he feels it is unnatural to call someone about his age (28), who assumes an informality in the interviewing, "Mr. . . ." But I wonder if Mr. . . . isn't correct under all circumstances. —Doreen F.

Dear Mrs. F.: A business interview is not like a social conversation, and you are quite right. Your husband should call the person interviewing him "Mr. Jones" unless specifically asked to call him "Bob." If that is the case, naturally your husband would do so, or be thought most unfriendly.

Car Pool Etiquette

Dear Mrs. Post: I am the only male with three females in a car pool. Is it proper for me to sit in the front seat? I am usually the first one picked up along the route.—Ted

Dear Ted: Whether male or female, the first passenger generally sits in the front seat to keep the driver company.

Tree Bark Produces Basic Makeup for Burmese Women

U BA THAN

RANGOON UPI—Thanakha makes an excellent cosmetic. And it can be carved into smoking pipes, is prescribed for malaria and is just the thing to remove oil stains from clothing.

Thanakha, a versatile tree, grows wild in the hot, dry jungles of central and northern Burma, and few Burmese women would be without it.

The coarse bark of the tree produces the basic makeup used by most Burmese women. And the tree's yellowish woodscented, tough and close-grained — has been carved for centuries into combs, hairpins and smoking pipes.

In this Buddhist nation of 25 million people living between Indochina and India, women start the day with a strange exercise.

They take a chunk of bark from a thanakha tree, wet it with water and grind it in a circular motion on a polished whetting stone.

Grinding the bark on sandstone produces a golden yellow paste, which is the basic cosmetic used by Burmese women.

Thanakha cream is applied to face, neck, hands and feet. It softens and perfumes the skin, and blends with perspiration into a golden sheen.

Ready-prepared thanakha paste in the form of dried cake can be purchased in the market. But most Burmese women prefer to make their own cream by hand each day after their morning bath. Shops sell pre-cut chunks of thanakha bark for milday's toilet.

Experts say thanakha trees may become extinct because they are cut extensively without any systematic replanting or cultivation.

The tree grows slowly. It takes 10 to 15 years for a tree to reach its full height of about 10 feet with a girth of about 12 inches.

Since the middle ages when kings ruled Burma now ruled by a revolutionary military council, Burmese have tinkered with thankha wood.

From its hard woods, artisans carved combs and pins to adorn women's hair, rosary beads for Buddhist worshippers, ladles for country kitchens and smoking pipes with fine grains in the bowls.

An old Burmese remedy for malaria prescribes a broth made by boiling thanakha leaves and salt.

And to remove oilstains from clothes, dab the stain with thanakha paste, allow it to dry and brush.

Is it any wonder that in Burma poets have composed ballads praising the thanakha tree?

ADD MORE TRASH — Two cooks add more trash to the pile of garbage collecting behind their restaurant in Troy. Collection of a week's backlog of garbage littering the streets of the city of 65,000 began on Saturday. The trash is being dumped in a controversial sanitary landfill site in the south end of the city. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Planning Report Shows Rhinebeck Prospers

RHINEBECK — Comprehensive planning for the town and village of Rhinebeck has turned up some rather shaking statistics and evidences thus far, as shown in the new compilation prepared by Sargent, Webster, Crenshaw,

The Town of Rhinebeck is the most prosperous in the Mid-udson Valley that has come under the scrutiny of the planners. Average per capita income in 1964 was $2,9' average family income in 1960, before muc. of our present inflation, was $6,783.

While the Northern Dutchess area is generally believed to be farm country, there was evidence of only ten operative dairy farms and three fruit farms in the town. Seventy three per cent of the population worked for wages and salaries, with a trend towards Kingston and Poughkeepsie commuting.

Should Be Corrected

A deficiency which the planning firm felt should be corrected, to enhance the community as a whole, was the building up of community services.

Interviewed employers and merchants felt that: the labor supply was inadequate; the sewer system could be better; power and water was fair; phone service a nuisance; and many business services could not be obtained locally.

The area was judged to be deficient in amusement accomodations, and business and repair services.

Population projections have about 3,200 people in the town outside the village and 2,400 in the village. In 1980, the town should have 4,200 and village 2,900. In 1990, the town outside the village 5,200 and the village 3,500.

Agriculture on Decline

Broad conclusions are that agriculture is on the decline; retail trade is plagued by competition from Kingston; there is a definite lack of services; good potential tourism is as yet undeveloped.

New manufacturing will depend upon improvement of community facilities. Rhinebeck is seen as a bedroom community of the future, with commuting to Kingston and Poughkeepsie remaining as essential to the economic base.

Fiscal structure, land use study, transportation, and community facilities are gone into at great depth.

A copy of the Comprehensive Plan for the Town and Village of Rhinebeck is available in the village offices for perusal. The town and village planning committees will meet again May 6.

Seek to Form Hemophilia Chapter Here

NEW PALTZ — An organizational meeting of the Mid-Hudson Chapter of the National Hemophilia Foundation will take place 8 p.m. Friday, April 18, at the conference room of Vassar Brothers Hospital Poughkeepsie.

A spokesman for the group, which consists of families interested in helping local sufferers of the ancient blood disease, said the purpose of the meeting is to formally elect officers and adopt by-laws so "we can begin to function as a cohesive unit and work towards providing needed services in the County of Ulster, and the rest of the Mid-Hudson Valley."

He added that "anyone interested in lending support to this effort will be most welcome" at the meeting, or they should contact George Bernstein, 16E Colonial Arms Drive, New Paltz, 12561, for further information.

Good Advice

The Society for the Prevention of Blindness advises that you sit 10 feet or more from the set while watching television. The set should be at eye level and you should leave a lamp burning while the television is turned on.

Hudson River Sloop Is Squadron Topic

KINGSTON — Commander Harold Dennis of the Mid-Hudson Power Squadron announced today that the speaker for the April 15th meeting will be Richard A. Dwelley, who will give a sound-slide presentation on the Hudson River Sloop.

Dwelley is a member of the Board of Directors of the Hudson River Sloop Restoration and producer of the slide presentation, "Romance of the Hudson River Sloop," which gives the background and history of this famous type of vessel.

A replica of the sloop, named the "Clearwater," will be launched in Maine May 17 and will cruise the Hudson starting this summer.

RICHARD A. DWELLEY

Dwelley is a member of the Mid-Hudson Power Squadron; the Marine Historical Association of Mystic, Conn., the Bath Marine Museum, Bath, Me., the U. S. Naval Institute; the City of Poughkeepsie Marina Commission; the Poughkeepsie Yacht Club; was formerly Vice-Commodore of the Chelsea Yacht Club; and is a member and former Trustee of thee Dutchess County Historical Society.

Dwelley is the president of the Advertising, Public Relations and Marketing firm of Dwelley and Bolger, Inc., of Poughkeepsie, and is a director of the First Savings and Loan Association of Poughkeepsie.

The Squadron's April meeting is being held at the Little Brook Farm in Newburgh and will start at 6:30.

Expect Small Voter Turnout For Red Hook Bond Issues

RED HOOK — Less than one-third of the eligible voters in the Red Hook school district will take to the polls Tuesday to decide the fate of more than $2 million in construction.

Only 1,182 voters have registered, and may cast their ballots from 2-9 p.m. at the high school gymnasium. Over 4,000 voters were eligible to register.

Two bond issues will be voted on. The first is a 36-room addition to the Mill Road Elementary School, at a cost of $2,160,000.

The second is a 1,000 seat auditorium, to be affixed to the gymnasium portion of the high school and to serve both the junior and senior high schools. It's cost is $465,000.

Public meetings have been held to acquaint the district resident with all ramifications of the project.

Appointments Made Known in New Paltz

NEW PALTZ

Appointments of department heads and other village officers were made this week at the organizational meeting of New Paltz Village Board which also set April 22 for the annual spring cleanup drive.

Cleanup week starts April 22 and continues through April 29. During this week village residents are asked to pile all debris, excluding certain large items such as mattresses, large springs, iceboxes and sofas, on their front lawns at the curb for collection by the street department. Leaves may be left at the curb in plastic or other containers for pick up at the same time.

Appointments were as follows: Wilbur Fredenburg, village clerk-treasurer; Mrs. Fredenburgh, deputy clerk-treasurer; Trustee George Ackert, deputy mayor; Albert Sutherland, superintendent of public work; Charles Alsdorf, assistant superintendent; Kenneth Hasbrouck, historian; William M. Morris, Mrs. Fredenburgh, Mrs. Ann Van Tassel and Mrs. William D. Corwin, election inspectors; William M. Gruner, village attorney; Bryon White Planning Board; Raymond Morris Sr., Zoning Board of Appeals; Bruce Ashton, assessor; Mrs. Anthony Frascinella, matron; George Jayne, zoning inspector.

The State of New York National Bank and First National Bank of Highland in New Paltz were designated official village depositories.

More Harm Than Good

If you put extra weight in the trunk of your car for winter driving, you do more harm than good, according to automotive experts. Extra weight disturbs the over-all stability of a car and tends to lift the front end off the road surface.

Community Group Meets Again Soon

RED HOOK

The Northern Dutchess organization "will meet again in a week or ten days", according to chairman Mrs. Harry L. Bird of Red Hook.

The group held its first meeting Wednesday to organize, and has yet to decide in what directions it will aim is resources.

A primary purpose will be a day care center. This would be functional the year round, keeping children of mothers that have to work in order to make ends meet.

"It is also possible that we might be able to train mothers to operate a sort of child care center, under state regulations, for children without families, or with families unable to care for them," she stated.

"We seem to have about 25 or 30 people who are really interested in getting this thing off the ground," continued Mrs. Bird. "I think we should get organized while the interest in so high."

Migrant workers, while only here two or three months a year, have come under study for aid in living conditions.

Elderly people on fixed incomes and teenagers without proper facilities are also on the agenda to "help people help themselves".

"We do not have slums and eyesores, but problems are there nonetheless," she said.

GOVERNMENTAL COST — With a minimum of fanfare, President Nixon has upgraded a government post to the White House appointment level, and then named an old political adviser, Murray M. Chotiner, to fill it. The move came to light when it was announced that Chotiner had been selected by Nixon to be general counsel of the office of Special Representative for Trade Negotiations at a salary of $36,000 a year. In the past, the post was filled under the Civil Service, rather than by presidential appointment, and paid $30,000 a year. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Convict Woman In Mate's Death

HUDSON, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Lenore E. Coons, 27, was convicted Friday of the Aug. 24 murder of her husband.

Kenneth Coons, 57, was killed at his Copake Lake cottage with a .22-caliber pistol after he and his wife argued about a child.

Mrs. Coons appeared calm in court, but tears sprang to her eyes when the jury, after two hours and 21 minutes, returned its verdict.

Judge Philip G. Coffee of Albany set sentencing for April 16. Mrs. Coons was remanded to the Columbia County jail.

Archer's Win Is Master Loss for Casper

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—The record book will forever say that skyscraping George Archer won the 1969 Masters Golf Championship. It might just as well say Billy Casper lost it.

"I never was so discombobulated," sighed Casper in the wake of the disaster that struck him on his unlucky 13th attempt to win the Masters green coat and pot of cash—one of the few major golf titles that has escaped the usually cool, calm and collecting Bonita, Calif., pro.

The six-foot-six Archer, who just might have become a basketball star along about now if he hadn't been kicked off his high school team several years ago because he sneaked away to play golf on Mondays, took the Masters by shooting only a par 72 on the last round for a 72-hole score of 281.

Right on his heels at 282 were Canadian George Knudson and long-hitting Ohioan Tom Weiskopf —and Casper, who started one stroke ahead of Archer and wound up one stroke behind him after an incredible round of five bogeys and three birdies.

Casper's plan to win the title by playing conservatively was blown up in this bogey barrage after he had taken only two bogey in the first three rounds.

Casper, who never quit in a gallant comeback bid that didn't fail until his 35-foot chip shot on the final green rolled a foot past the cup, insists he was right in his strategy.

"I knew what I had to do and I just couldn't pull it off," he said.

Casper, who feels his previous Masters bids have foundered because he "gambled too much," says this one flopped simply because he didn't execute the plan. Casper got all his five bogeys in those first 10 holes before rallying too late.

"I played like a 14-handicapper out there for 10 holes," Casper said. "I'm sure there were a lot of people in the galleries who were thinking they could have been doing as well as me."

So Archer, who lives on a ranch in Gilroy, Calif., and has been nicknamed "Cowboy" although he insists "I never was as high class as a cowboy," took it all by playing par golf on the final round with 35-37—72. He had three birdies and three bogeys.

The rest of the story was — what might have been for Weiskopf, for Knudson, and for hasn't won a major tournament Texans Don January and Charles Coody. Coody, who hasn't won a major tournament in five years, looked like he was going to be a Cinderella champ when he burst into a one-stroke lead with just three holes to play.

"I felt like I had the tournament in my hand there on the 16th tee," the Stamford, Tex., pro recalled. And so he had. But he shot a stunning three straight bogeys on the last three holes and wound up tied with January, who merely shot the day's best round, 66, for his 283 and then sat back in the clubhouse waiting to see if that would be good enough to win.

Knudson could have won if putts had dropped on the last two greens. Weiskopf had a chance when he was tied at 7 under par with Archer and Coody with two holes to go, and then he bogeyed the 17th.

Archer won it because he never lost his faith in himself—even when his second shot went into the water on the par-5 15th.

'I hit a four-iron and I thought I hit it real good," he said. "I was surprised when I saw the splash because I thought it would catch the green and maybe set up an eagle."

That's when the big Californian could have cracked. Instead he took his stroke penalty, pitched his fourth shot onto the green and rammed home a 12-foot putt.

"That 12-foot putt that saved my par was the one shot that saved me," said Archer. "I was fortunate to make it."

The new Masters champion is 28, a product of San Francisco where he "never lived more than four years in one house, as my father, trying to make an extra buck, would fix up houses we lived in and then sell 'em." He learned golf by caddying. His idol was ex-pro star Harvie Ward, but the man he learned the most from was pro Bud Ward.

"I never took any lessons from Bud because I didn't have the five dollars," Archer said. "But you can learn by watching and that's what I did.

After high school in San Mateo, Calif., the place where the coach bounced the future skyscraper from the basketball team because he insisted on playing golf on Mondays," a caddy's day at the course," Archer worked in a furniture store trying to get a stake to play amateur golf, went broke, and finally was taken under the wing of Eugene Selvag, an industrialist who gave him a job as a ranch hand that left him free time to play in the afternoon.

When after he achieved a modicum of success as an amateur, Archer turned pro in mid-1963. It was Selvag who was his sponsor and signed the PGA guarantee of money for his expenses.

Archer insists he is not a gambling golfer, despite shots like that four-iron that got him into trouble trying to reach the green on the 15th.

"It's not a question of gambling," Archer said. "What you think you can do, you do. What you don't think you can do, you don't do. It's not gambling to try shots you think you can do."

He didn't make that one, but he didn't let it beat him.

So today he wears the Master's Green Coat, size 42 extra large.

Celts' Two Defensive Gems Place Knicks in Jeopardy

BOSTON (AP) — Success breeds confidence—and the Boston Celtics are loaded with both ingredients in quest of an 11th National Basketball Association championship in 13 years.

However, the Celtics are not taking anything for granted, despite a 3-1 advantage, in heading into the fifth game of a best-of-seven series with the New York Knicks in the Eastern Division's final playoffs.

"There's still one to go, you have to win four," was the Celtics' warning cry as they took off for New York in hopes of winding up the series tonight in Madison Square Garden.

Boston's mighty defense, led by Player-Coach Bill Russell, was the difference as the Celtics edged the Knicks 97-96 Sunday before a crowd of 13,506 and a national television audience.

Los Angeles also took a big step toward the title series by nipping Atlanta again by two points, 104-102 on the West Coast for a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven Western Division final set.

Johnny Egan's 10-foot jumper with 18 seconds to go brought the victory as the teams head to Atlanta for the next two games Tuesday and Thursday.

The Knicks brought the ball into play, intending to have Walt Frazier take a shot. However, Frazier, confronted by John Havlicek, couldn't find shooting room and passed to big Wills Reed at the free throw line.

Reed didn't have any room either as he turned to face Russell. His forced shot was short and the ball went out of bounds off a Knick.

"We expected the ball to go to Frazier," Russell said. "We decided to take Sam Jones out, put Havlicek on Frazier and sent in Satch Sanders to cover Bradley. Havlicek did a tremendous job on Frazier. It was a key defensive play."

New York then fouled former Knick Emette Bryant with six seconds left. In an unusual move, the Celtics called time out to set up more strategy, the confidence showed.

"I didn't know what to think when we called time," Bryant said. "Usually, the other team does it, hoping to upset the shooter. Then all I hear was 'After he makes his two free throws . . . after he makes his two free throws.' You know, something like that can become contagious."

CELTICS' BAILEY HOWELL (L) wrestles for ball with Knicks, Dick Barnett during 2nd quarter action of the 4th game in the Eastern final NBA playoff series. Looking on is Celtics' Bill Russell (6). Boston defeated New York 97-96 to take 3-1 lead in the series. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Canadiens Take 2-0 Lead

By United Press International

The Canadiens, once again at their dramatic best, turned back the Boston Bruins in a sudden-death overtime Sunday for the second consecutive time, winning 4-3 to take a 2-0 lead in their National Hockey League playoff.

Defenseman Serge Savard tied the score for Montreal with only 1:09 left to play in regulation and Mickey Redmond won it on a power play at 4:55 of overtime. Three days earlier, the Canadiens deadlocked the opening game of the best-of-seven set with 56 seconds left in regulation before winning it in overtime.

The close struggles have been having their effect on Ruel, and the pudgy coach admitted today he is losing weight as a result.

"Just these two dramatic games and I've already shed some pounds," he said. "Don't forget, I've sweated out two overtime encounters in a row."

The pairing for the West Division final was completed Sunday night when the Los Angeles Stars beat the Oakland Seals 5-3 to take that series, four games to three. Los Angeles will engage the St. Louis Blues for the right to meet the Montreal-Boston survivor for possession of the Stanley Cup.

After a scoreless first period at Montreal, both teams scored twice in the second. Johnny McKenzie and Ron Murphy tallied for Boston and Yvan Cournoyer and Jean Beliveau for the Canadiens. Johnny Bucyk gave the Bruins a 3-2 lead in the third period before Savard got the equalizer.

"We'll be back here in Montreal for the fifth game," said a subdued Harry Sinden, coach of the Bruins. The third and fourth games will be played in Boston on Thursday night and next Sunday afternoon.

Ted Irvine scored two goals for Los Angeles, giving him five for the series, but the winner was knocked in by Lowell MacDonald at 7:53 of the final period, making the score 4-2. Gerry Ehman scored for the Seals less than three minutes later but Howie Menard iced it for the Kings with a 10-footer with 1:34 remaining in the game.

Los Angeles will be at St. Louis on Tuesday and Thursday in the first two games of their series.

age 18 and over. Prepare now for U. S. Civil Service job openings during the next 12 months.

Government positions pay high starting salaries. They provide much greater security than private employment and excellent opportunity for advancement. Many positions require little or no specialized education or experience.

But to get one of these jobs, you must pass a test. The competition is keen and in some cases only one out of five pass.

Lincoln Service has helped thousands prepare for these tests every year since 1948. It is one of the largest and oldest privately owned schools of its kind and is not connected with the Government.

That One Bad Round Again Haunts Billy

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—Billy Casper insists he doesn't believe in jinxes.

But, call it what you will, up there on the Masters scoreboard —for the 13th straight year— was that unexplainable "one bad round."

Billy thought No. 13 might be the charm. He came to the Masters with a new strategy: no more gambling, just play it safe and easy.

For three rounds this cautious plan worked like a charm. Casper went into Sunday's final round of the Masters golf tournament sitting on a one-stroke lead.

Then came that "jinx"—or whatever Casper wants to call it.

For 10 holes, Casper played, in his words, "worse than most 14-handicap golfers I've played with." By the time he finally pulled his game together at No. 11—it was too late.

Despite three birdies in a five-hole span down the stretch, Casper wound up with a 2-over-par 74 for the day. That "one bad round;" gave him a 6-under-par 282 for the tournament, leaving him one stroke behind Masters champion George Archer.

I've never been as discombobulated ," the 37-year-old Californian said, speaking of those first 10 holes Sunday.

Whereas his play-it-safe strategy had limited him to only two bogeys over the first 54 holes of the Masters, Casper had five bogeys in those 10.

"I was 5 over for the day and beginning to get a a bit discouraged," the 1966-68 pro golfer of the year said. "It could have been easy at that point to say 'to hell with it.'

"But, I turned to Matthew (his caddy Matthew Henry) and said, 'it's time for us to get down to business."

Before he walked up to the 445-yard par-4 11th hole to tee off, Casper had seen his one stroke lead over Archer turn into a four-stroke deficit. At that point, he was tied for seventh on the leader board and the way things were going it appeared he'd soon disappear off the board entirely.

But that also was the point where Casper threw caution to the winds and decided to go for broke.

"I still think my plan to play cautiously is the correct way to win here," he said. "Sure, my game fell apart for awhile but that doesn't change how I feel.

"Of course, when I got that far behind with so few holes left to play, I had to start taking chances."

He sank a bold 30-foot putt at No. 11; reached the green of the par five 13th in two with a 2-iron; and reached the green of the par five 15th with a 4-wood for those three birdies.

MVP to Moss, Derrenbacher

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

DeMicco Motors and Aero Lake Airport met for the third straight year in the Kingston Basketball Tournament finals Sunday night and the result was the same as last year.

The Lakers grabbed the first intra-city meeting between these rivals 93-89 in the 1967 finals. DeMicco's came back with a 99-98 squeaker in 1968 and last night ground out an impressive 95-89 victory to wrap up their second straight title.

Aero Lake, however, salvaged a measure of glory by placing three players on the tournament all-star team Rod Chando, the fabulous Charlie Brown and Wayne Ranisch, the ex-Port Jervis High star.

DeMicco's placed Jerry Moss and Mike Derrenbacher, who shared the Most Valuable Player award for the first time in the tournament's history.

Moss, with 32 point's and a strong defense job on Jumpin' Joe Uhl and Derrenbacher, a sensational floor player, did the job for the heavily-UCCC flavored DeMicco's. It was in fact a triumph for the "kids" over the old pros in the Aero Lake lineup.

Victory for Kids

And nobody in the house was happier about the final results than Coach Mike Perry of UCCC, who had no part in the proceedings, but was an interested spectator just a few paces from the DeMicco bench.

Moss grabbed scoring honors with 32 points, 15 in the first half and 17 after the recess. In the meantime, he played his legendary precedessor at UCCC-Joe Uhl—to a standstill in a man-to-man showdown. Uhl hit an all-time tournament low with only six points.

Derrenbacher Sensational

Derrenbacher scored 14 points, directed the DeMicco floor attack, forced Aero Lake into numerous turnovers and was so outstanding that not many in the modest crowd would have objected had he been awarded the MVP prize outright. Even Moss confided after the game that he would not have been unhappy if the judges had voted it all to Iron Mike.

Tony Pough aided the DeMicco attack with 18 points. Ray Lindhorst canned 14 and Gary Kirkwood and Gay Powell shared the other 17.

Charlie Brown, the New Jersey flash who broke the back of the DeMicco squad with a record 51 points in the 1967 fianls, led Aero Lake with 23 points but most of his points were anticlimatic after the Motormen had definitely established their superiority.

The real Aero Lake hero was Rod Chando of last year's UCCC squad. Chando hit 20 points, spaced evenly with 10 in each half, and thrilled the Aero Lake supporters with brilliant outside shooting. Bill Boines hit 14 and Leon Hanna had 10 for the losers.

Bob Bondar had only nine points for Aero Lake but each of his four baskets came in clutch situations when it appeared the Lakers might move back into contention.

The teams were tied four times in the early going at 15-15, 17-17, 20-20, and the last time at 39-39 with about three minutes left in the half. A Moss-Pough-Derrenbacher blitz opened up a 10-point lead for DeMicco's at 50-40.

Aero Lake refused to buckle completely, however, as Bondar ripped in two fast buckets and Chando added another to close the gap to within 52-46 at half-time.

DeMicco's pulled away steadily after the second half got under way, piling up points ranging from 10 to a tops of 14 points at 82-68.

Coach Jim Massa of Aero Lake had high praise for the Motormen, despite the second straight loss in a three-year series in which only 11 points have separated the teams.

Derrenbacher Was Key

"The key of the game was Derrenbacher," said Coach Massa. "His driving through the center and the failure of our players to cover their man on defense were the major factors in the DeMicco win."

Coach Bill DuBois of DeMicco's had pretty much the same reaction as Coach Perry. "The kids played a tremendous ball game," he said, adding, "you'd have to call it a big win for the kids over the old pros," an obvious reference to Uhl and Brown.

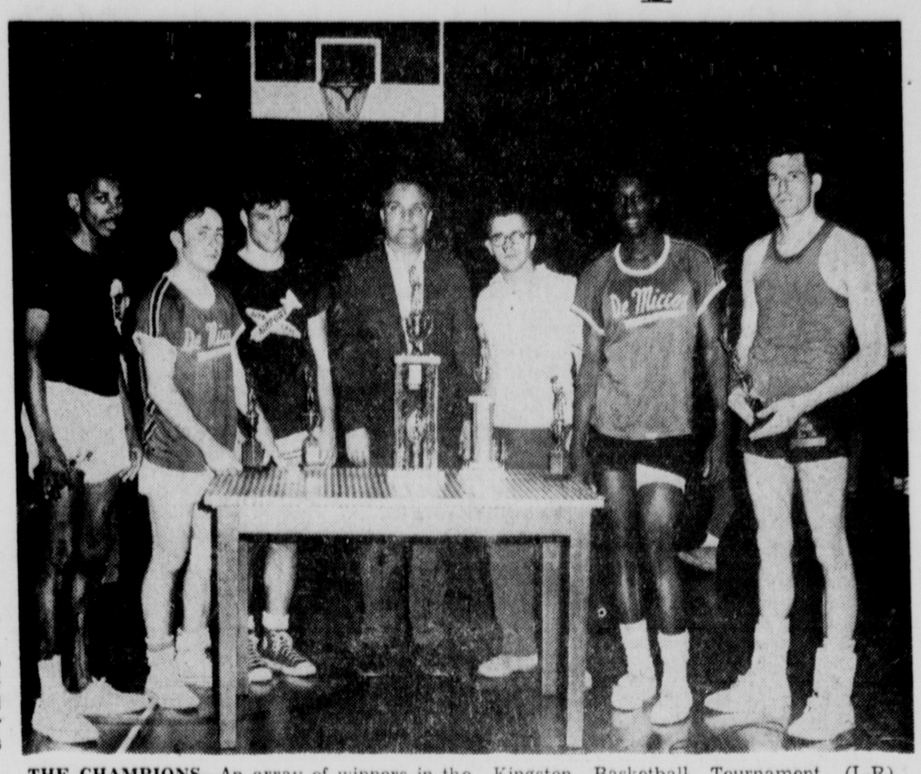

Coach Massa, obviously happy about the three all-star selections, said Uhl's lackluster performance mitigated against the Lakers but was greatly impressed by Chando's performance. "Without him," commented Massa, "we wouldn't have even been in the game.

Stargell's Blasts Silence Pitt Boos

By Associated Press

The boo-birds were swarming all around Roberto Clemente but Willie Stargell's big bat kept them from settling down for long.

Stargell unloaded two long-distance home runs Sunday, the second one with Clemente aboard to tie the score in the eighth inning, and Pittsburgh topped Philadelphia 6-5.

It was the fifth victory in six starts for the Pirates but Pittsburgh's fast start hasn't kept the fans off Clemente's back. The four-time batting champion crippled two rallies with double play balls and then committed a two-base error in the outfield.

When he came to bat in the eighth, the fans jeered. Clemente tipped his hat, took four balls for a walk and trotted home in front of Stargell's second home run, which tied the game. Moments later, Al Oliver singled and came around on a sacrifice, an error and Fred Patek's double for Pittsburgh's winning run.

In other National League games Sunday, St. Louis tripped New York 3-1, Chicago nipped Montreal 7-6, Atlanta swept a doubleheader from Cincinnati 1-0 and 5-4, Houston took Los Angeles 5 2 and San Francisco dropped San diego 5-1.

Clemente is off to a slow start with only four hits in his first 21 swings this season. So he wasn't exactly surprised at the booing.

"If they feel I should be punished about something, let them punish me," he said. "I wouldn't hold anything against the fans. Whatever they do is fine with me."

It was what Stargell did that was fine with the fans. Willie's two homers were both tape-measure jobs, the first one clearing the left field wall at the 406-foot mark with room to spare and the second sailing over the 436-foot mark in center field.

"I'm just glad they went out," he said. "I wouldn't care if they scraped the walls." He said he had hit homers over the seldom-cleared 436 sign before but that he couldn't remember when.

"I won't remember this one next year," he added.

Philadelphia got off in front with consecutive triples by Richie Allen and Johnny Callison and a homer by Deron Johnson providing three early runs.

Bob Gibson stifled New York on three hits and the Cardinals won their third straight from the Mets. Two wild pitches by loser Tom Seaver helped the Cards to a pair of runs in the first inning and that was enough for Gibson's first victory of the year.

Chicago rallied to beat Montreal with Ernie Banks' two-out, bases-loaded single driving in the winning run in the ninth inning. Mack Jones drove in four runs for the Expos, three of them with a home run. Montreal scored five unearned runs with the help of two errors by Don Kessinger, but it was Kessinger's ninth inning double that kept the Cubs' winning rally alive.

Phil Niekro pitched a four-hitter and scored the only run of the opener as Atlanta shut out Cincinnati. Niekro, who struck out nine, opened the eighth inning with a single and came around when Tony Cloninger walked Hank Aaron, Orlando Cepeda and Clete Boyer.

Cepeda's eighth-inning homer tied the nightcap and then Felipe Alou, who had a two-run homer earlier, singled home Sonny Jackson with the Braves' winning run in the ninth.

Houston ended a five-game losing streak by whipping Los Angeles with all the Astro runs coming on homers. Denis Menke, Doug Rader and Jim Wynn all connected with Rader's shot a three-run job. Don Wilson pitched a five-hitter to pick up the victory.

Willie McCovey stroked his third homer of the year and lifted his runs batted in total to eight in six games as the Giants whipped San Diego. Hal Lanier had three singles and drove in two runs for the Giants, who got five-hit pitching from Gaylord Perry.

Gibson Tops Mets, 3 to 1

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bob Gibson and the St. Louis Cardinals got off to a slow start, but both are coming on strong now.

The defending National League champions lost their first three games to Pittsburgh, but on Sunday finished a sweep of the New York Mets to pull even for the infant season at 3-3.

Gibson, who went nine innings but didn't figure in the decision in one of the Pittsburgh games, again went nine Sunday and was near flawless. He won a 3-1 verdict, limiting the Mets to three hits—the first coming in the fifth inning.

Gibson got eight strikeouts. He whiffed New York third baseman Ed Charles three times, twice with runners in scoring position—including the ninth inning.

Live below your means.

If you'd like to get around the high cost of living, we have a suggestion:
Cut down on the high cost of getting around.
And buy a Volkswagen. It's only $ 1799*
That's around $1200 less than the average amount paid for a new car today. (Leave it in the bank. More's coming.)
A VW saves you hundreds of dollars on upkeep over the years.
It takes pints, not quarts, of oil.
Not one iota of antifreeze.
And it gets about 27 miles to the gallon. The average car (thirsty devil that it is) only gets 14.
So the more you drive, the more you save.
And chances are, you'll drive it for years and years. (Since we never change the style, a VW never goes out of style.)
Of course, a VW's not much to look at. So a lot of people buy a big flashy car just to save face.
Try putting that in the bank.

Sicks' Stadium Is Health Spa for Sox

(By Associated Press

Seattle's Sicks' Stadium suddenly became a health spa for the ailing Chicago White Sox, but a visit to balmy Baltimore was not what the doctor ordered for Frank Howard and the Washington Senators.

The White Sox, beaten convincingly in their first two meetings with the American League's Seattle expansion club, bounced back Sunday with a barrage of five home runs and floored the Pilots 12-7.

At Baltimore, right-handers Jim Palmer and Tom Phoebus combined to strike out Howard six times and hurl the Orioles to 2-0 and 9-0 victories over the stricken Senators.

Elsewhere, Boston trimmed winless Cleveland 3-1, Detroit cuffed the New York Yankees 6-2, Minnesota shaded California 5-4 and Kansas City divided a doubleheader with Oakland, winning the opener 4-1 before bowing 3-0.

Pete Ward and Bill Melton socked successive first inning homers for the White Sox and Woodie Held and Don Pavletich also cleared the friendly left field fence—305 feet down the line—at Seattle. Gail Hopkins completed the assault with a right field blast as Chicago doubled its total run production in four previous games.

"No doubt there are going to be some home runs in this ball park," White Sox manager Al Lopez understated after the slugfest.

"Good pitching will hold anybody," countered Joe Schultz, the Pilots' pilot, pointing to his club's 7-0 and 5-1 victories over the Sox Friday and Saturday.

The only good pitching Sunday came from Chicago reliever Wilbur Wood, who blanked the Pilots from the fifth to the ninth, when he was tagged for homers by Tommy Davis and Jose Vidal.

Palmer, who had not pitched for Baltimore since Sept. 19, 1967, because of recurring shoulder trouble, fired a four-hitter in the Orioles' first game victory, striking out Howard four times.

Phoebus then spun a two-hitter, getting Howard on strikes twice, as the Orioles blanked the Senators for the third straight game. Dave McNally had shut them out 9-0 Friday night.

Frank Robinson's third homer, a two-run shot off Joe Coleman, decided the opener. Paul Blair and Merv Rettenmund homered in the nightcap.

Howard, who drilled four home runs in Washington's first three games and hit nine against the Orioles last season, went 1-for-14 in the four-game series, fanning eight times. He came into Baltimore batting .357 and left with a .214 mark.

Lee Stange scattered eight hits against his former Cleveland teammates and rico Petrocelli and Reggie Smith homered as the Red Sox pinned a fifth straight loss on the Indians, the only winless team in the majors.

Harmon Killebrew slammed a tie-breaking eighth inning homer, carrying the Twins past California for their first victory in five starts.

Jim Nash's three-hit pitching and homers by Reggie Jackson and Dick Green earned Oakland a split with Kansas City after Mike Fiore's first major league homer and three unearned runs gave the Royals the opener.

Tigers Rip Yanks, 6-2

DETROIT (UPI)—Al Kaline hit a 410 foot home run to highlight a three-run first inning Sunday and start the Detroit Tigers on their way to a 6-2 victory over the New York Yankees.

Dick McAuliffe opened the frame with a single. He was forced at second by Mickey Stanley before Kaline unloaded his blast into the upper deck in left center.

Losing pitcher Stan Bahnsen gave up a single to Norm Cash before doling out the first three of his five walks to force in the third run of the inning. Last season's rookie of the year is now 0-2.

Joe Sparma, 1-0 this year, and 9-3 lifetime against New York, started for Detroit and sweated it out for 6 2-3 innings before Mickey Lolich came on to finish up. Sparma allowed only five hits but walked eight.

PITCHING—Jim Palmer and Tom Phoebus, Orioles, held Washington to four and two hits, respectively, in a 2-0, 9-0 doubleheader sweep over the Senators.

BATTING—Willie Stargell, Pirates, slammed a pair of tape measure homers, driving in three runs, in a 6-5 come-from-behind victory over Philadelphia.

New Leaders In State Pins

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A new leader in the handicap team event, a new co-leader in the handicap singles and new pace-setters in all of the scratch categories highlighted the third weekend of play in the New York State men's bowling tournament.

The Lucky Seven of Buffalo rolled a 2790-423—3213 total Sunday to move into first place in the five-man team event, four pins ahead of the Prospects of Rochester.

Earlier in the weekend, Frank Tavano of Ossining compiled a 652-63—715 total to gain a share of the singles lead with Rochester's Lawrence Tonelli, the early pace-setter.

Dick Maline of Frankfort was king in the scratch standings, leading the singles with an actual 687 for three games and a 1909 in the nine-game all-events. The Isamans of Hornell topped the teams with a 2979 and the Syracuse duo of Tony Rinaldo and Bob Zellweger led the doubles with 1243.

The tourney ends June 1.

At a meeting Saturday Joe Malambri of Fulton was elected president of the sponsoring State Bowling Association and Utica was awarded the 1971 tourney. The event will be held in Kingston next year.

Other officers named were: Bill Marchese, Buffalo, first vice president; Harold Shaul, Binghamton, second vice president; Maurice Hayes, Rochester, third vice president; Tony Spano, Ithaca, fourth vice president; Herb Burns, Tonawanda, secretary-treasurer for three years; and Carl Samuelson, Jamestown, assistant secretary-treasurer, one year.

The handicap leaders:

Singles: 1. (tie) Lawrence Tonelli, Rochester, and Frank Tavano, Ossining, 715; 3. Pete Kamysz, Buffalo, 708; 4th (tie) Ed Jackson, Jamestown, and Dick Maline, Frankfort, 705.

Doubles: 1. Matt McConville and Dave McDonald, Rochester, 1363; 2. John Spano and Pink Crisafulli, Oswego, 1348; 3. (tie) Bob George and Bill Quist, Jamestown, and Tony Rinaldo and Bob Zellweger, Syracuse, 1315; 5. James Cook and Leonard Brown, Avon, 1312.

Team: 1. Lucky Seven, Buffalo, 3213; 2. Prospects, Rochester, 3209; 3. La Chases, Rochester, 3200; 4. Reddington's Funeral Home, Buffalo, 3175; 5. Springville Lanes, Springville, 3173.

All-events: Lawrence Tonelli, Rochester, 2055; 2. (tie) Sylvio Bianchi, Rochester, and Tom Cordora, Rochester, 1985; 4. Angelo Gersonia, Rochester, 1981; 5. Frank Rusinek, Kenmore, 1975.

Kickers Play Scoreless Tie

MORGAN HILL Kingston Sports Club Soccer team played to a 0-0 tie Sunday against the German-American Club of New York City. The Premiere Division Contest was played at Oehler's Mountain Lodge.

Defense was the name of the game as both teams locked horns in a battle marked with body contact. The Kingston Kickers had a number of chances to score in the first fifteen minutes, but tough work by the New York goalie prevented any scores.

Despite the tie, the Kickers held on to their two-point lead over the second place Newark Athletic Club which was idle Sunday. The Kickers came off a two weeks layoff for the contest.

The second half of the 1968-69 season is under way in earnest now. Passaic visits Oehler's next Sunday.

Team	W	Tied	L	Pts.
Kingston	9	4	2	22
Newark	9	2	4	20
Hoboken	7	5	4	19
N. Y. Hungarians	7	4	4	18

In another game played yesterday, Hoboken defeated the Hungarians, 2-1.

SAUGERTIES Onteora High School's Baseball team came up with six runs in the first inning and then went on to defeat Saugerties High School, 6-0, in a non-league game Saturday at the loser's field. Ed Mercer Picked up the win, as he hurled a three-hitter at the Sawyers. Mike Turek took the loss.

Mercer helped his own cause as he belted a base hit in the first inning to drive in two of the six runs. Eddie had two hits, as did Steve Kimmel and Tom Reilly. Bill Mellert and Mark Haberstroth each had an RBI. Alan Cocks and Kimmel had doubles.

WATERLOO, Iowa (UPI)—The Michigan Wrestling Club piled up 35 points to capture the National AAU tournament Saturday. The New York Athletic Club was second with 33 points and Iowa State was third with 25.

Mercer could have done just as well if the Indians had scored one run, as he hurled shutout ball for the seven inning contest. Bob Todaro touched Mercer for two hits and Randy Fury got one.

Andretti Wins California 200

HANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—Mario Andretti, driving a new wedge-shaped turbo-Ford, led from the start Sunday to win the $30,000 California 200 at the Hanford Motor Speedway.

The Nazareth, Pa., driver, who qualified for the pole position with a 160.115 mile an hour clocking, won by more than a full lap in the 134-lap event. However, no official time was kept because the race was topped and restarted.

Lloyd Ruby, Wichita Falls, Texas, in a turbo-Offenhauser, finished second and Gordon Johncock, Hastings, Mich., also driving a turbo-Offenhauser, was third.

Roosevelt Edges New Paltz, 8-7

HYDE PARK Roosevelt High School opened their baseball season with a 8-7 victory over New Paltz High School. The game, a non-league tilt for both clubs, was played Saturday at the winner's field. Steve Blass was the winning pitcher while Bob Lynch picked up the loss.

Home runs seemed to be the pass word of the day as Tom Allard smacked one in the third inning for the Presidents and Ray Zappone slashed a two-run shot, also in the third stanza for the Hugenots.

Roosevelt tallied four runs in the opening inning, added one in the third and three in the fifth. New Paltz kept coming on, trying to close the gap, scoring one in the first, two in the third and two in the sixth.

Coach Bill Freer's boys rallied for two runs in the seventh with two on and two out. Allard, the hard-hitting catcher proceeded to pick the runner off first base for the final out of the game. Allard had a three-for-three day at the plate for the Presidents.

Hawaiian Luau Planned by Extension Unit

SAUGERTIES

A Hawaiian Luau is being planned by the Barclay Heights Home Extension Unit which met recently at the home of Mrs. Bernardo Lesko. The luau will be held in June instead of the annual banquet.

Also announced was a class in flower making held by Mrs. John Welton at the home of Mrs. Charles Scala.

Election of officers was held with Mrs. Richard Dyr named the chairman; Mrs. Jerry Lark, vice chairman; Mrs. Raymond Scally, secretary; Mrs. Jack Staudacher, treasurer; Mrs. John Welton and Mrs. Roy Helsmoortel, program chairman.

A talk was presented on "Food in the Light of the Law" by Mrs. Jerry Lark and Mrs. Robert Osterhoudt.

Punctuation

The present systm of punctuation was developed from a system employed by an Italian scholar and printer, Aldus Manutius, in the late 15th and early 16th centuries.

Introducing a Used Car Guarantee It Doesn't Come With Every Car

And it comes only with used cars that pass the Volkswagen 16 point Safety and performance test.

This is how it works. When we get a car as a trade-in, we give it the inspection. Check it out completely. If it passes, we tune up, tighten, repair or replace everything that needs tuning up, tightening, repairing or replacing.

Then we guarantee it 100% repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts* for 30 days or 1000 miles.

What kind of cars get our guarantees? All kinds. Chevys. Fords. Ramblers. VWs. (We get all kinds of trade-ins for new Volkswagens.)

So. The next time somebody tries to sell you a used car that's "just like new," ask about the guarantee. Then remember us.

No, our used cars aren't "just like new". No used car can be. But no used cars could be in better shape, either.

Dear Abby

Stars Cool Her Plans

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I've been keeping steady company with a retired, very well-to-do gentleman for the last 3 years. I vacation in Arizona where he owns a lovely home. We're both in our mid-sixties.

He asked me to marry him, so I went to my horoscope reader and I told her about him and his proposal, and she said my stars were not right to marry at this time, and I should wait until the signs were better for me.

I told this gentleman I wanted to think about it for a while, and he went north on business and I haven't seen him since. Perhaps I should have accepted his proposal. What do you think?

VIRGO

DEAR VIRGO: If he's worth following, find "business" of your own "up north" and nail him. If he's not already married to your horoscope reader, that is.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a sophomore in high school and have a serious problem. Recently I saw one of my closest friends steal a watch from one of the lockers in the gym. I told him I saw him take it, but he denied it.

If I rat on him, I might lose his friendship. What should I do?

ANAHEIM

DEAR ANAHEIM: Tell this boy that you KNOW he stole the watch and advise him to put it back. Expalin that this kind of stuff usually leads to bigger thefts, which bring on stiff penalties and ruined reputations. And tell him that his refusal to comply will mean the end of your friendship.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have been married almost 20 years. I won't say I have a perfect marriage, but I do live by 2 theories. (1) Marriage is a 50-50 proposition. (2) No woman in her right mind would try to raise children alone unless she had absolutely no choice.

I have always told my husband, "Come on and help me, change that diaper! You had as much fun getting these kids as I did."

He has known from the day our first child was born that he could have his freedom anytime he wanted it. I just made it plain that if he wants to go, he's got to take the kids with him. I keep their clothes so it won't take more than 15 minutes to pack.

So let "TORTURED" of your recent column tell her husband that she'll pack the kids' clothes for him and his "hot little secretary," and see how fast they "cool it." I'd bet my bottom dollar the secretary would run like a scared rabbit.

Sign me "AGREEABLE"

* * *

DEAR ABBY: That was good advice you gave "Tortured," the 40-year-old wife whose husband asked for a divorce so he could marry his young secretary. You said, "Don't make any permanent decisions now. Your husband's "love affair" sounds too hot not to cool down."

I know. I went thru the same thing with my husband when he "feel in love" with a pretty young girl who worked for him and knew his finances. It lasted several years, but I hung on for the sake of our 3 children, and I'm glad I did.

My husband returned to me and we shared his remaining years together as a contented old couple. I nursed him thru his prostate trouble, and finally cancer. He was the man I loved.

What would have happened to him if I had put him out of the house? Please sign me

BODY: (Q.) Just exactly what is body in hair? Mine is very fine and it's so limp I can't do a thing with it.—N. in Philadelphia.

(A.) Body is what your hair doesn't have! Hair with body is lively, not limp.

You could get a body wave and hair color. But I believe a setting lotion would be the most natural-looking way to build body in yours.

Bridge

Roth System Aids Slam Bidding

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jim: "I have just been looking over the new book by Alvin Ross and Jeff Rubens entitled, 'Modern Bridge Bidding Complete.' What do you think of it?"

Oswald: "Required reading for anyone who wants to be a really good bridge player. The reader doesn't have to adopt the Roth system but he can see the many questions raised about Standard American ambiguities and at least straighten out the meaning of many of his own bids."

Jim: "The book shows the Roth methods as checked thoroughly by Rubens. It is not easy reading since the 500 pages are practically all good red meat."

Oswald: "No question about that. They have wasted very little space on idle chatter."

Jim: "Today's hand illustrates one of the Roth bids at work. North's jump rebid of four clubs would be meaningless in an ordinary partnership. In the Roth method it shows very strong spade support and very good clubs. Naturally it is a force to a spade game or slam."

Oswald: "The bid makes it easy for South to get to the grand slam. He simply checks for aces and bids seven spades."

Jim: "the North-South cards also produce a grand slam in no-trump and the grand slam might well be reached by otner methods but the Roth-Rubens bidding certainly made it easy."

Oswald: "Trade South's jack of spades for East's 10-spot. Then the only grand slam would be in spades and it could still be reached easily with this method."

Susan Saint James Adjusts

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Through a combination of good fortune, a distinctly American face and a peck of ambition Susan Saint James, 22, finds herself working with Gene Barry, Robert Stack and Tony Franciosa every week.

Susan is the Girl Friday of all three stars of the television series, "The Name of the Game."

Her lines are usually limited and the action frequently finds Susan sitting in an office somewhere while the heroes save the day.

Still, there are few freckle-faced, straight-haired, flat-chested 22-year-olds who find themselves in such fast company.

Perhaps because of her youth, Susan is unawed and unimpressed by a job that would have a million other girls her age, and older, in a veritable tizzy. She watches and learns and hopes for the day when she is a star in her own right.

"I adjust to each one of the stars," she said, indicating there is considerable adjusting to do.

There is no great amount of affection squandered among the stars, two of whom are noted for being somewhat temperamental.

Occasionally Susan is terrified when anger flares on the set. Once she was near tears when one of the stars asked her where or if she had learned to act.

"You wouldn't believe how much those guys believe their roles," she said, sipping a noontime glass of wine at the Brown Derby.

What about Susan Saint James who plays Peggy Maxwell?

"I want to be a star," she concluded. "But then I guess every girl who works in movies and television feels the same way. But they don't have Tony and Bob and Gene to help teach them the ropes."

TV Briefs

Fess Parker is going to have a new sidekick whenthe "Daniel Boone" series begins its sixth year on the NBC network in the fall. He is Roosevelt (Rosey) Grier, giant former tackle for the Los Angeles Rams National Football League team who retired from the gridiron in 1968. Grier has been edging into show business via singing and guitar playing for several years. In the video series he will play Gabe Cooper.

Brothers Sid and Marty Krofft, whose puppet extravaganza, "Les Poupees de Paris," has played all over the country for eight years, are creating a half-hour television series that NBC will broadcast Saturday mornings beginning in September. The show is called "H.R. Pufnsnuf." The Kroffts will not use puppets and are cagey about content, describing it only as "a total happening for everybody, introducing a new entertainment dimension yet unexplored on the video tube."

Broadway actor Tom Bosley will be a regular on next season's new NBC "That's Debbie" half-hour weekly comedy series starring Debbie Reynolds. He will have the role of Bob Landers, brother-in-law to Debbie.

Bess Myerson, who was Miss America of 1945 and served for the past six years as co-host for the annual telecast of the pageant finale, will not be back next September because of her new job as New York City's director of consumer affairs. She will be replaced by Debbie Bryant, Miss America of 1966. Bert Parks will return for his 14th year as co-host.

E.G. Marshall, who was a lawyer for so long in "The Defenders" series, will be seen in the fall as a doctor in a drama complex that NBC calls "The Bold Ones." This consists of one-hour plays rotating in the same time spot, each dealing with a different group of dedicated professional men—doctors, lawyers and law enforcement.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Even though Antarctica is snow-covered, it is the world's largest desert, The World Almanac says. Half the size of the United States, this frozen wasteland surrounding the South Pole receives only six inches of snow yearly, which equals ½-inch of rain. Death Valley, in summer the hottest and driest place in the nation, receives more moisture than that.

FLY NOW, PAY NOW — Pan American Airlines stewardess Janet Hoffman laughs as she tells newsmen that one of the hijackers aboard Pan Am. flight 460 that was hijacked enroute to Miami from San Juan and taken to Cuba, asked for and received a mixed drink during the flight to Cuba, only after she told him it would cost. He paid. L. to R. Miss Hoffman, 1st officer Raymond White, Capt. George Dix and flight Enginer David Wendt. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

No Drinks on the House, Senor During Unscheduled Cuba Hops

MIAMI (UPI)—A cool stewardess has let it be known that hijackers don't rate free drinks on nonscheduled flights to Havana.

Janet Hoffman was one of the hostesses aboard a Pan American 727 jet which was diverted to Cuba by four armed men Sunday during a Puerto Rico-to-Miami hop. When one of the hijackers ordered a scotch on the rocks, she made him pay.

"He gave her a dollar and she gave him 50 cents change," said Capt. George V. Dix, the pilot on Flight 460.

250 Miles Out

Dix said he was about 250 miles out of San Juan when Miss Hoffman called him from the aft (back) galley and said, "A man here wants to go to Havana. I think he has a toy or something."

"Bring him up and let's find out," the captain told the stewardess.

The gun was no toy.

It was the second hijacking within 48 hours, the 22nd of the year and the 14th involving U.S. airplanes. For Pan American, it was the first of the year and the third in the airline's history.

An Ecuadorian Airlines DC6 was hijacked last Friday during a flight in South America.

Dix described the gunman who entered the cockpit as short and stocky and unable to speak good English.

"He kept waving his gun around saying, 'Havana, Havana'," the pilot added. "Later, he bummed a match from me to light a cigarette and said, 'Thank you'."

Three Others

Three other hijackers remained in the passenger sections.

"They never pointed the guns at us," Miss Hoffman said. "Initially they were very nervous. They would change the guns from one hand to the other. They appeared to be congenial with everyone."

One of the hijackers read a Bible inscribed "To Ramon," stewardess Merrill Potash said.

"He kept telling me about how great it was in Havana," she added. "He left the Bible on the plane when he got off in Cuba."

The hijackers exchanged pleasantries with the passengers and assured them "it will be a short flight," according to Dr. Harold Habenicht, a pediatrician from Mayaguez, P.R.

Cuban guards led the four hijackers away after they surrendered two pistols and a knife at Jose Marti Airport. The passengers were served orange juice and ham sandwiches and later a steak dinner.

Northern Dutchess Hospital

Charge Now, and Pay Later

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK

A "charge now, pay later" plan has gone into effect at Northern Dutchess Hospital.

Througgh a charge plan offered by Marine Midland of Poughkeepsie, subscribing patients simply present their credit cards when discharged. Payment of their bills is handled through the bank.

"This is wonderful for the hospital," said Richard O. Langham, hospital controller. "We get full payment almost immediately on each Master Charge account without going through all the bookkeeping and billing normally required."

"It is of great benefit to the patient, too. He can make any arrangements for payment of his account that are suitable to him and the bank. He may even put it on an installment plan," continued Langham.

X-Ray Unit Purchased

"The new machine will take a greater variety of X-rays than its predecessor and use less radiation exposure," related Dr. Frederick Elias, chief of radiology. The films which are obtained are of excellent diagnostic quality.

"The new unit is unique in several respects," he explained. "It makes it feasible to X-ray patients in their rooms, and can be plugged into a conventional outlet."

"X-ray examinations can now be made at the patient's bedside of parts of the body too dense to be taken with the previous portable unit."

New Directors on Board

Mildred Z. Young, Richard L. Battenfeld, and Donald S. Dapson were recently elected to the Board of Directors of the Northern Dutchess Hospital.

Mrs. Young acted as assistant secretary to the Board for ten years. She owns and operates the Mildred Z. Young Insurance Agency in Rhinebeck and is secretary-treasurer of the Morton Memorial Library Board of Trustees, Rhinecliff.

Battenfeld, first vice president of the Rhinebeck Savings Bank and a member of its board of trustees, is also a board member of the Dutchess and Columbia Co-operative insurance Co., and Farmers Town Mutual.

Dapson, owner and manager of Dapson Funeral Home, was elected president of the Rhinebeck Savings Bank in 1961. He serves on the boards of the Starr Memorial Library, Upper Dutchess Visiting Nurse Service and the Rhinebeck Cemetery.

In Saugerties Next Saturday

Burns Scorches Young Dems

SAUGERTIES

Calling the New York State Young Democrats "merely a paper organization" Democratic State Chairman John J. Burns today declared them "virtually useless to the party."

Burns will be in Saugerties this Saturday, as the guest speaker at the Saugerties Democratic dinner-dance to be held at the Flamingo Restaurant.

Response to a Letter

The chairman's statement was in response to a letter sent recently to all state committee members by the Young Democrats, who according to the chairman, made "random and unsubstantiated attacks" on the party.

"The New York Young Democrats do little in New York to enter Democratic politics," Burns suggested.

A recent report by the Democratic Task Force headed by former presidential aide Theodore Sorensen had recommended that the Young Democrats limit membership to college students and those under the voting age. It proposed that all other members be "fully integrated into the full spectrum of party activity in an effort to bring young voters into active party membership and decision making."

Sorely Dissappointed

Admitting that he was sorely disappointed in the Young Democrats lack of performance, "Burns said he found it necessary to appoint a special committee on Young Participation to study and recommend ways to enable youth to play a larger role in party affairs.

In his statement Burns said, "The New York Young Democrats do little to inspire the young in New York to enter Democratic politics.

"In these times of confrontation politics when so many of our best youth are disillusioned with our system of politics and are dropping out, it is of unprecedented importance that every effort be directed at constructive reform and at convincing the young of the merits of the democratic process.

"We are striving towards these ends in the State Committee, but the Young Democrats have offered no positive contribution along these lines.

"Their president claims a membership of 25,000 when in reality they attract a mighty 150 people to their conventions and the majority of their county meetings draw about 25 people.

"We need the young to keep us in tune with the times, to keep us flexible, and to remind us that they are the inheritors of what we do today."

Winter-Parked Cars

It's Moving Time in New Paltz

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

NEW PALTZ

Businessmen in New Paltz are breathing a sigh of relief these warm pleasant days as cars that have been parked in their business parking lots all winter are gradually moving out.

The village ban on all-night parking during the winter months from Nov. 1 to April 1 created a rush to pull cars usually park on the streets to the nearest business parking lot.

When the March winds stopped howling the owners went to retrieve and discovered that the winter had taken its toll and they wouldn't start. As one merchant put it, "some of the cars are still out there and I guess some of the businessmen will be stuck with them.

The businessmen try to avoid complaining to the police because some of the cars owners may be good customers or potential customers. However, it did create a problem in smaller lots where the businessman has tenants who need a parking space for their cars.

Many of the cars that are still in the lots have expired license plates and in some cases the plates have been removed to avoid identification.

The all-night parking ban went off April 1 and those motorists who have businessmen with parking lots as good neighbors have removed the vehicles. It should be pointed out that many car owners asked permission to park in the business lots during the winter months. However, there are many that just pull up one night and park for the winter.

Many of the merchants take it good naturedly, but inwardly they are happy when they see the first robin and know they can have the full use of their parking lots again.

Paltz Death Under Probe

NEW PALTZ

The sudden death of Mrs. Daniel Regan, about 64, of Main Street, this village, today was under investigation by village and state police and Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp.

The body was removed to the county morgue at Kingston Hospital for an autopsy to determine the cause of death.

Civil Liberties Meeting

The Mid-Hudson Chapter of the New York Civil Liberties Union will meet on Wednesday, April 16, at 8 p. m. at the Campus Center, Marist College. At this meeting the executive director of the N.Y.C.L.U., Aryeh Neier, will speak on, "Student Unrest and Civil Liberties." The meeting will be co-sponsored by the Student Government Cultural Committee of Marist College. Refreshments will be served.

Ellenville Budget Work

ELLENVILLE

Ellenville Village Manager Paul Boucher was still working on the final preliminary figures of the 1969 village budget today.

Although he could not give any figures for publication at this time, he did say that it appears there would be a slight increase in the village tax rate.

The public hearing on the budget is scheduled for tonight 8 p. m. in the village hall.

The final draft of the budget was expected to be completed Friday afternoon, but the tragic death of a nine-year-old boy visitor at the village's Ice Cave Mountain held up all work by the village manager.

Boucher was involved in search for the body of the child most of the afternoon.
